REPORT

On Student Services, Activities and Inclusion Support

2025

Prepared by: Office of Transformation and Strategic Development

Responsible Unit: Office of Youth Affairs, UWED

Purpose

This report provides structured information on student services, extracurricular activities, sports and wellness participation, student initiatives, and inclusion-related support at the University of World Economy and Diplomacy (UWED) for the reporting period January–December 2025. The report consolidates information provided by responsible units on student engagement, youth development, psychological and social support, course coordination, prevention and campus safety, accommodation support, sports and wellness activities, student clubs, and support measures for students with disabilities. It also draws on decisions recorded in the minutes of the UWED Educational-Methodological Council. The main purpose of the report is to present the availability, organisation, visibility and monitoring of student services and activities at UWED in a clear and evidence-based format.

3. Student Services

3.1 Youth Affairs and Student Engagement

The Office of Youth Affairs supports students' social engagement, educational and cultural development, and participation in university life. Its activities include the organisation of educational and cultural events, support for student initiatives, coordination of youth-related activities, and the promotion of students' social responsibility and active citizenship. The Office contributes to the broader student-centred environment by complementing formal academic study with civic, cultural, leadership and social development opportunities. Since 2025, faculties have been working systematically with the Youth Union coordinators assigned to each faculty, on the basis of plans and orders.

3.2 Psychological Support

Psychological support at UWED is aimed at strengthening students' emotional stability and helping them address stress, adaptation difficulties, academic pressure and personal challenges. The information provided by responsible units indicates that the service includes individual psychological consultations, group sessions, personal development training, stress-resilience training and time-management activities. These measures support students' well-being and contribute to academic adaptation and retention.

3.3 Campus Safety and Prevention

The Prevention Inspector Service contributes to a safe campus environment by supporting public order, preventing violations and negative incidents, conducting awareness and advisory work with students, and cooperating with university administration and relevant law-enforcement bodies. This function complements UWED's wider ethical and disciplinary framework and supports a secure learning environment.

3.4 Housing and Dormitory Support

Housing and dormitory-related services support students in securing accommodation and managing dormitory placement. The information provided by responsible units refers to online applications and monitoring systems for housing and dormitory placement. These services are particularly relevant for students from other regions and contribute to a stable living and learning environment. Where needed, the University also provides individual financial relief: in November 2025, the Educational-Methodological Council decided that the dormitory debt of a student with a Group II disability would be covered by the University.

3.5 Course Coordination and Academic Support

Students are supported by course coordinators who act as the first point of contact for academic and administrative matters. From October 2025, academic groups are assigned to course coordinators at approximately 250 students per coordinator, and course coordinator sessions are included in the timetable at least once every two weeks.

The support provided through this system includes:

- organising student feedback surveys on teaching quality, with a target participation rate of at least 70% of students;
- helping first-year students on their first day of study and during their adaptation to the University;
- providing practical assistance with tuition contracts and payment procedures;
- informing students about SDG-related events and university initiatives;
- monitoring attendance under clause 80 of the Academic Regulations, with written notification of parents in cases of repeated absence.

In March 2025, the Council decided that a Student Handbook based on the provisions of the Academic Regulations be prepared and delivered to students, so that students are informed of their rights, obligations and available support procedures.

4. Sports, Wellness and Student Development Activities

Sports and wellness activities form an important part of UWED's student development environment. According to the information provided, UWED maintains a swimming pool, football field, basketball field, volleyball field, gym, sports hall, and recreational facilities such as chess/checkers and table tennis areas in the student dormitory. Student participation in sports reached 86%, compared with 84% in the previous year, while all first-year students were reported as covered by sports activities. Sports activities are coordinated by the University's Sport and Health Centre.

The University also supports student participation in internal and external competitions, including activities under the Five Important Initiatives, Universiada, Student League, Navruz, Rector's Cup and other events. These activities support teamwork, physical well-being, discipline, social integration and student engagement.

UWED's sports infrastructure is also opened to the local community. As part of the University's SDG commitments, and in cooperation with two neighbouring mahallas, 4 low-income local residents were given free use of the swimming pool and gym at the Sport and Health Complex from March 2025.

5. Clubs, Projects and Student Initiative

UWED reports 30+ active clubs and projects that contribute to students' intellectual, social and leadership development. These include 25 faculty-based clubs and circles (8 at the Faculty of International Relations, 7 at the Faculty of International Law and 10 at the Faculty of International Economics and Management). These structures provide students with opportunities to participate actively in university life, develop initiative and strengthen collective responsibility. Major clubs and projects with significant student participation include:

Club / project	Reported participation	Developmental relevance
UWED MUN Club	2,136 students	Model United Nations, diplomacy, negotiation, public speaking and international agenda-setting.
Student Scientific Society	1,718 students	Student research, scientific engagement and academic communication.
Zakovat Intellectual Club	1,425 students	Intellectual competitions, analytical thinking and teamwork.
UWED Debate Club	1,414 students	Argumentation, public speaking, critical thinking and civic communication.

These clubs contribute to student-centred learning by creating an educational and social environment in which students participate not only as recipients of knowledge, but also as active contributors to university life.

6. Inclusion Support and Students with Disabilities

The information provided by responsible units indicates that UWED works systematically with students with disabilities. A register of students with disabilities has been formed in accordance with institutional requirements. At the time of reporting, 37 students with disabilities were enrolled, including 17 female students.

Category	Reported number	Note
Group I disability	4 students	All reported as female students.
Group II disability	28 students	Includes 13 female students.
Group III disability	5 students	Includes 1 female student.
Visual impairment	2 students	Includes 1 female student.
Mobility impairment	4 students	Includes 3 female students.
Other forms of disability	31 students	Includes 13 female students.

Support measures include a 50% additional scholarship for 35 students with disabilities and dormitory placement for 24 students with disabilities. Academic units review the type and degree of disability and organise the learning process according to the individual situation of the student. Where necessary, teaching methods, assignments, assessment criteria and consultation arrangements are adapted to the student's physical and psychological capacities.

Students with disabilities or limited financial means who need to repeat courses or trimester study may receive a 75% discount on the retake fee, following consideration by the Educational-Methodological Council and formalisation by university order. This measure was applied in 2025, including for students with disabilities. In total, 22 students were granted a 75% retake fee discount by Council decision. In addition, six students who had transferred from Ukraine received a further one-time 75% discount for their remaining retake courses, and the discount was also granted to a fourth-year student with a disability and limited financial means.

Individual support also extends to practical needs. In November 2025, the Council decided to provide a wheelchair to a first-year student with a Group II disability for moving around the campus, and to cover the dormitory debt of another student with a Group II disability from university funds.

7. Financial Support for Low-Income Students

Financial ability is one of the main barriers to higher education. In addition to the general state-grant places, UWED admits students on additional state grants reserved for low-income categories. These grants cover full tuition for the whole period of study. During the academic year, 166 students were admitted on such grants.

Category of support	Students	Evidence / note
Children of families on the poor-family register (Kambag'al oila reyestri)	12	Additional state grant (full tuition). Political Science 2, International Relations 4, World Economy and International Economic Relations 6.
Orphans and children deprived of parental care (graduates of orphanages and SOS Children's Villages, children under guardianship or foster care, under 25)	19	Additional state grant (full tuition), including 13 students admitted after appeal with free dormitory placement.
Women admitted on a recommendation issued to support women	107	Additional state grant (full tuition). International Relations 28, International Law 22, World Economy and International Economic Relations 57.
Master's students on preferential state grants	28	Preferential grant (full tuition).
Total, 2025/26 intake	166	First-year Bachelor's and new Master's students only.

Orphans admitted after appeal were also given free places in the student dormitory. In addition, 12 students with disabilities were admitted on the additional state grant for persons with disabilities, and students with disabilities receive the 50% additional scholarship described in Section 6.

Displaced students are also supported: six students who transferred from Ukraine received a one-time 75% discount on their remaining retake courses.

8. Inclusion-Related Activities and Community Engagement

In addition to individual support measures, UWED reports activities aimed at developing inclusive education and social responsibility among students. These activities include expert-group work, training, visits to specialised educational institutions, volunteer engagement, charity initiatives and cooperation with the local community.
