1. In order to increase the awareness about poverty, to spread academic information a teacher of the "International relations" faculty, Atabekova A.B, wrote an article along with her student Turdaliyev X.B. on the topic of "Poverty as the main obstacle to progress". This has aided in the implementation of SDG 1.1, specifically 1.1.3 (Research on poverty), by conducting academic research on poverty and its effect on living standards.

2. In 2024, the teachers of the UWED made an analytical report on the topic of “The Importance of the Gender Factor in Poverty Reduction and Prevention.”. This report mainly focused on the implementation of the SDG globally, more specifically the Central Asian region, as well as Uzbekistan. The article spread knowledge about how gender equality reduces poverty creating better living standards for people.

This report aligns with SDG 1.1.3 as it shows analytical research on poverty and its reduction. As the research is connected with gender equality, this aligns with SDG 5.1.1 (Research on gender equality).

3. Another piece of research contributing to SDG indicator 1.1.3, on the spread of knowledge about poverty and its economic effects was conducted by “International relations” teacher Atabekova A.B, who wrote an article along with her student Ozodova A.Z. on the topic of “Eradicating poverty: Global Issue”.

SDG 1.1.3 No poverty: publications indicator

SDG 1.1.3 No poverty: publications indicator

1.b.1 - proportion of government spending that is allocated to programs that benefit poor and vulnerable population

- The objectives of Sustainable Development Goal 1 (SDG 1: No Poverty) are directly supported by the participation of UWED professors R.U. Tursunova, L.M. Tashpulatova, and G.K. Sultanova as experts in a television program on poverty reduction reforms in Uzbekistan in November 2024. This program specifically focuses on Indicator 1.b.1, which measures the proportion of government spending that is allocated to programs that benefit poor and vulnerable populations. These professors enhanced the effectiveness of national poverty alleviation measures, promoted evidence-based policymaking, and raised awareness by participating in public discussions and sharing expert insights on poverty reduction strategies. Their participation is also consistent with the overarching objective of SDG 1, which is to enhance the design and execution of development strategies that are gender-sensitive and pro-poor, thereby guaranteeing that economic reforms in Uzbekistan are socially sustainable and inclusive. Ultimately, academia supports the country's progress toward the eradication of poverty in all its forms by integrating research with policy action and public education through such expert participation.

- 1.2 - Proportion of students receiving financial aid to attend university because of poverty

1. In 2024, during the winter semester, a teacher of the “International Economics” department, Tashpulatova L.M held an educational course for “Malaka Oshirish” (professional development) program, to teachers about poverty, Gini index and its economic effect to the country.

This educational course contributes to the increase of SDG 1.2.2 (Education about poverty) indicator by teaching them about poverty and its factors and reasons. She helped spread knowledge about poverty and social inequality. Additionally, as this event was held with another entity (Diplomatic Academy) , it aligns with SDG 1.2.3 indicator (Outreach educational activities for poverty awareness)

Zero Hunger

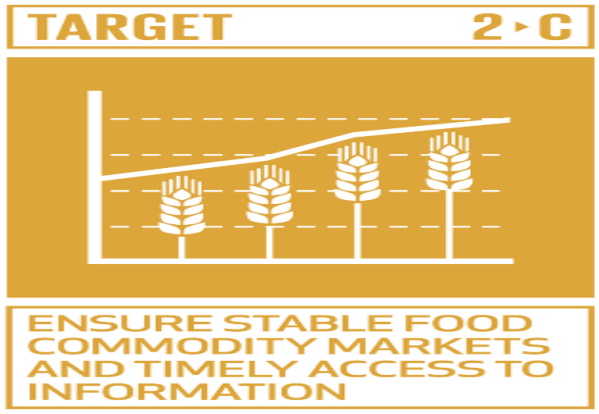

The University of World Economy and Diplomacy actively tries to contribute to Sustainable Developments Goals 2nd target, by donating food, providing discounts for students, and researching food security and the agriculture impact on economic growth.

- 2.1 – Research on Hunger

SDG 2.1 (Research on hunger indicator)

Moyliyev E.B. and Tashpulatova L.M. oversaw the writing of the paper "Uzbekistan's WTO Membership Priorities in Rural Development Prism," which examines the strategic ramifications of Uzbekistan's WTO accession from the standpoint of rural development. The article emphasizes how crucial it is to match trade policy with rural development plans by concentrating on agricultural trade, rural investment priorities, and integration into the global market. The goal of SDG 2.1.3 (Zero hunger: publications) indicator, which is to double the agricultural productivity and incomes of small-scale food producers, such as farmers and rural laborers, is directly supported by these initiatives.

The study emphasizes how enhanced access to global markets, cutting-edge agricultural technologies, and opportunities for capacity-building could boost productivity and give rural households more reliable sources of income. In this sense, the study advances the global goal of lowering rural poverty and promoting sustainable agricultural growth in Uzbekistan.

Annotation: The goal of the paper is to learn impact of Uzbekistan's WTO membership on the agricultural sector. The authors deeply analysed impact of WTO membership through TRIST model, SWOT analysis, learning Uzbekistan's laws and regulations as well as comparing national agricultural efficiency with the agricultural efficiency of foreign countries. As a result of these analyses, practical proposals for the WTO membership process were developed.

Key words.: WTO membership, TRIST model, agriculture sector, "developing" country status.

Introduction

Sudden changes, economic fluctuations and transformation processes

SDG 2.1 (Research on hunger indicator)

Moyliyev E.B.'s doctoral dissertation in 2024, "The Impact of Uzbekistan's WTO Membership on the Agricultural Sector" is in line with SDG 2.1 (Research on hunger indicator).

By examining how WTO membership can improve farmers' income, market access, and agricultural productivity through trade liberalization, the study relates to target 2.3., because WTO integration promotes investment, technology transfer, and institutional reforms in agriculture. It also has relevance to Target 2.A. by demonstrating how trade policies can support Uzbekistan's agricultural sector in accordance with SDG 2 objectives, the study promotes sustainable rural development and food security.

- 2.3 – Student Hunger

By ensuring that people from low-income and diverse financial backgrounds have access to enough nourishing food, this initiative supports SDG 2.3.2 indicator (Students hunger interventions).

1.Faculty members at the University of World Economy and Diplomacy frequently plan food events on holidays or at the end of the seasons that give free meals to students residing in dorms, especially those from low-income families.

SDG 2.3.2 indicator: Students hunger interventions

2. Every day, UWED provides free bread and juice to students in an effort to ease the financial burden on low-income families and enable them to have access to at least basic food items. Additionally, everyone can get food at a discounted price from the university. It can be consumed with or without food at lunch.

This program offers non-monetary assistance to alleviate poverty and hunger, which is in line with SDG 2.3.2 indicator (Students hunger interventions).

Discounted foods and free bread and juice for everyone

Discounted foods for everyone

SDG 2.3.2 indicator (Students hunger interventions)

3. The University of World Economy and Diplomacy's second-year students arranged a food exhibition in November 2024 with the goal of educating people about the value of nutrition and the culinary customs of different countries. Food was prepared and served at discounted prices during the event, and those living in university dorms, those with disabilities, and those with low incomes were given free food.

- Since it guarantees vulnerable groups access to enough food that is safe, nourishing, and sufficient, this initiative aligns with SDG 2.3.2 (Students hunger interventions) and 2.3.4 (Healthy and affordable food choices) indicators.
- The project also emphasizes the role of youth as active change agents in promoting the SDGs, encouraging social responsibility, and developing leadership abilities through community-oriented action by putting students at the center of planning and execution.

SDG 2.3.2 (Students hunger interventions) and 2.3.4 (Healthy and affordable food choices) indicators

- SDG 2.3.2 (Students hunger interventions) and 2.3.4 (Healthy and affordable food choices) indicators

Indicator 2.3.1 - the volume of production per labor unit by classes of farming, pastoral, and forestry enterprise size and Indicator 2.4.1 - the proportion of agricultural land that is under productive and sustainable agriculture

- In January 2024, the participation of UWED professors L.M. Tashpulatova and G.K. Sultanova as experts in a television program on agricultural reforms and the development of market relations in the agricultural sector directly relates to Sustainable Development Goal 2 (SDG 2: Zero Hunger), particularly Indicator 2.3.1, which measures the volume of production per labor unit by classes of farming, pastoral, and forestry enterprise size. The professors contributed to the promotion of strategies that support higher incomes and improved livelihoods for farmers by participating in expert discussions on how market-oriented reforms can enhance productivity, efficiency, and sustainability in agriculture. Their participation is also consistent with Indicator 2.4.1, which concentrates on the proportion of agricultural land that is under productive and sustainable agriculture. This is because the program likely aimed to modernize the sector through responsible land use, equitable market access, and innovation. The experts' involvement in this endeavor facilitated the development of public awareness and policy dialogue regarding agricultural modernization, which are critical components of achieving food security, enhancing rural welfare, and assuring sustainable agricultural growth in Uzbekistan.

- 2.5 – National Hunger

2.5.4 (Sustainable food purchases)

- In 2024, on December 26, the University of World Economy and Diplomacy signed the "UWED Sustainable Procurement Policy". This document mainly concerns food policy and buying nutritious products from local suppliers. This document is the main contributor to the metrics of SDG 2.5, specifically 2.5.4 (Sustainable food purchases).
- By buying food from local suppliers, the university ensures that all food is organic and increases the sustainable growth of the producers.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOAL

Good Health and Well-being

• Maintaining health and physically active lifestyle is one of the key components of life and Sustainable Development Goals. The University of World Economy and Diplomacy also tries to actively contribute to achieve this goal, by promoting a healthy lifestyle among students and faculty members, organizing sports events and competitions, educational seminar lessons about how to prevent illnesses, and conducting research on the health and economic relationship.

3 GOOD HEALTH AND WELL-BEING

3.1 - Research on health and well-being

SDG 3.1.3 (Good Health and Well-being: publications) indicator

- A teacher of UWED, Hokimjonova Z.SH, wrote an article on the topic of "The Importance of Deep Learning to Detect IDC Patches from Breast Cancer." on April 27, 2024. This article demonstrates the use of deep learning technologies for early detection of invasive ductal carcinoma (IDC) patches in breast cancer. Artificial intelligence in medical diagnostics improves early detection's precision and effectiveness, which is essential for bettering treatment results and saving lives. One of the best strategies to lessen the financial and medical toll that breast cancer takes on families and society is through early diagnosis.
- SDG 3.1.3 (Good Health and Well-being: publications) indicator, which asks for lowering premature mortality from non-communicable diseases through prevention and treatment, is directly impacted by this study. The study contributes to global initiatives to enhance women's health and prolong healthy life expectancy by developing novel techniques for early cancer detection.

SDG 3.1.1 (Good Health and Well-being: paper views) indicator

Shuhrat Dilmuradov's article "Pay per view sales in decline: evaluating why boxing PPVs are no longer selling" was published in the Euroasia Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences (Vol. 28) in January 2024.

The study examined the consequences for the sports industry of the drop in professional boxing pay-per-view sales. The study emphasizes how commercialization affects sports accessibility in addition to the economic aspect. Public involvement in sporting culture, which is crucial for fostering mental and physical health, declines when access is restricted. This is in line with the indicator of SDG 3.1.1 (Good Health and Well-being: paper views), which center on bolstering health systems and guaranteeing fair access to opportunities and services that promote health.

3.3 - Collaborations and health services

Measles vaccination campaigns

In 2024, in order to fight against communicable diseases the University of World Economy and Diplomacy took steps to improve the health of its employees and students.

The university authority planned measles (qizamiq) vaccination campaigns for academic staff and students and performed comprehensive medical examinations in collaboration with the Mirzo Ulugbek District Medical Association. By preventing infectious diseases and facilitating access to high-quality healthcare services, these initiatives help achieve SDG 3.3.1 (Current collaborations with health institutions) and 3.3.2. (Health outreach programmes) indicators.

The Sustainable Development-GLOBAL GOALS

"Supporting Change, Shaping the Future: University Initiatives for a Sustainable World" GLOBAL GOALS

Ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all

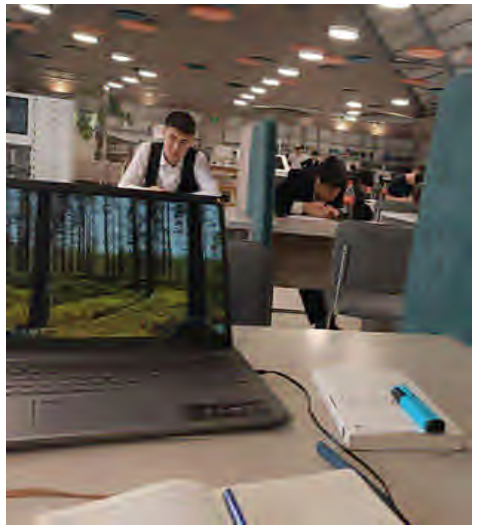

The Sustainable Development Goals, particularly SDG 4, emphasize the importance of ensuring inclusive and quality education for all. SDG 4 aims to provide everyone, regardless of background, gender, disability, or economic status, with equal access to educational opportunities. The main targets of SDG 4 address universal primary and secondary education, the development of vocational skills, the eradication of illiteracy, and the promotion of sustainable development education. A key focus is on eliminating discrimination in education, supporting equal opportunities, and creating safe and inclusive learning environments.

Quality Education: The Foundation of Global Economy and Diplomacy

- At the University of World Economy and Diplomacy, we operate on a core belief that the complex challenges of global economics and international diplomacy are solved not just in boardrooms, but in classrooms! Quality education is the foundational engine that produces the innovative thought and ethical leadership required for true global progress. SDG 4 is not an external goal; it is the essence of our institutional purpose.
- This report shows how, in the 2024-2025 period, UWED has worked to ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all.

Indicator 4.3.1: Providing Inclusive Access to Educational Resources

Our University provides free access to a wide range of educational resources for the general public, ensuring knowledge is a public good.
We achieve this through our open-access policies for the UWED Library and Digital Learning Resources.

Library gives access to this opportunities:
- Free registration for external users
- Access to computers, Wi-Fi, and physical collections
- On-site access to international databases (EBSCO, Scopus, ScienceDirect)

Also combining digital resources:
- Prestigious journals (The Economist, Foreign Affairs)
- Open educational resources and university publications
- National educational portals (Ziyonet)

Public Engagement Through Open Academic Events

University of World Economy and Diplomacy (UWED) demonstrates full compliance with SDG Indicator 4.3.2 through its institutional practice of hosting academic events accessible to the public. This commitment is exemplified by the round table discussion "Climate Change: The Role of Mass Media and Education in Shaping a Sustainable Future," held on 14 March 2024.

It successfully engaged a broad cross-section of the public, including:

1. Representatives from national and international media.
2. Diplomats from the Embassy of the United Arab Emirates.
3. Specialists from international organizations (UNDP) and non-governmental bodies (Ecological Party, Committee for the Rescue of the Aral Sea).
4. Faculty and students from other academic institutions, such as Webster University and the University of Journalism and Mass Communications.

Executive and Vocational Training Programs

UWED meets SDG Indicator 4.3.3 through executive education programs for external professionals. As an example, we can consider "Innovation and Business Models in the Digital Age" program. This program not only provided short executive course for senior managers and professionals but also delivered with international experts from Senteo (USA). Targets included also working professionals not enrolled at UWED and interactive format with practical case studies.

This demonstrates UWED's commitment to providing vocational training accessible to the general public, fulfilling the executive education component of SDG 4.3.3.

https://www.uwed.uz/en/news/461

Educational Outreach Beyond Campus

The University of World Economy and Diplomacy fulfills SDG Indicator 4.3.4 through structured educational outreach activities conducted beyond campus premises. The institution maintains active engagement with local schools and communities through voluntary initiatives involving both faculty and students.

Documented Evidence: School Outreach Initiative. On December 7, 2024, Faculty member from Department of Uzbek and Russian Languages and student members of the "Communication Skills" club, went to Secondary School No. 332,
Sergeli District. Organized
Specialized educational session on
"Environmental Issues from the Youth's Perspective"

https://www.uwed.uz/en/news/478

This initiative demonstrates institutional commitment to extending educational resources beyond campus boundaries through tailored lectures and student-run voluntary schemes. The program directly engages with local school communities, providing educational enrichment while fostering dialogue on critical global and social issues, thereby fully aligning with the outreach requirements specified in the indicator.

Equal Access Policy Compliance

UWED maintains a formal Policy on Ensuring Equal Access to Lifelong Learning Opportunities that guarantees access to all educational activities regardless of ethnicity, religion, disability, immigration status, or gender.

Policy Framework is:

- Grounded in Uzbekistan's Constitution and Law on Education
- Explicitly prohibits discrimination based on protected characteristics
- Ensures physical accessibility and reasonable accommodations
- Applies to all university activities including public events and educational programs

This institutional policy demonstrates full compliance with SDG Indicator 4.3.5, ensuring barrier-free access to UWED's educational resources and activities for all segments of society.

Community Engagement: Fostering Inclusion at Boarding School No. 30

4.3.4. Education outreach

Direct Action for Equity (SDG 4.5): In December 2024, UWED faculty from the "Uzbek and Russian Languages" department visited Boarding School No.30, a facility for children with special educational needs.

Building Inclusive Environments (SDG 4.a): Conducted a specialized training session, sharing our academic resources and pedagogical expertise to support a more effective and inclusive learning environment.

Strategic Partnership: This visit marks the beginning of a formalized partnership between UWED and the school, moving beyond one-time charity to sustained collaboration.

This initiative demonstrates our core belief that quality education must be inclusive, reaching the most vulnerable segments of society and ensuring no one is left behind!

Empowering Peers: Scaling Quality Education Through Student Leadership (Program organized in 2024 by Global Money Week) 4.3.4. Education outreach 👥 230+ Student Volunteers: Mobilized from 15 economic universities across the country.

🎯 Central Bank Certified: All volunteers underwent special training by the Central Bank, ensuring high-quality instruction.

🌍 15+ Partner Universities: A nationwide reach, demonstrating the scale of UWED's leadership.

📈 Peer-to-Peer Impact: Providing essential “study skills lessons” to peers in non-economic universities.

This innovative ‘Knowledge Volunteers’ project, which UWED helped lead, directly advances SDG 4 by turning our students into educators.

It’s a triple-win:

- For Recipients: They gain critical academic and economic literacy skills (Target 4.4).
- For Volunteers: They develop leadership, communication, and civic responsibility, embodying the principles of global citizenship (Target 4.7).
- For the System: It creates a sustainable model of knowledge sharing and equal access (Target 4.3), building a more integrated and skilled national workforce.

It demonstrates that UWED is:

- ✓ A recognized voice in the global conversation on quality education (Target 4.b).
- ✓ Investing in our faculty's development, ensuring they bring world-class insights back to our classrooms (Target 4.c).
- ✓ Actively building the international partnerships that are essential for modernizing education systems and fostering global citizenship (Target 4.7).

Fostering Regional Dialogue: The UWED Spring School for Central Asian Scholars

Promoting Global Citizenship (Target 4.7): Fostering a shared sense of regional identity and responsibility among the youth of Central Asia.

Building Bridges of Knowledge: A New Partnership for Global Education

4.3.3. Vocational training

A key component of achieving SDG 4 is building the strategic partnerships that make quality education possible on a global scale. In November 2024, we took a significant step in this direction.

We were honored to host a high-level delegation from Ludovika University of Public Service in Hungary. This meeting was dedicated to forging a concrete partnership in education and research.

This is the practical work behind Target 4.b, actively expanding our network of international cooperation.

The planned “specialized programs” are a direct promise of future enhanced and accessible education for our students (Target 4.3).

And by focusing on regional ties and mutual understanding, this partnership is a strategic move to institutionalize global citizenship (Target 4.7) within our curriculum.

DELEGATION FROM KAZAKHSTAN VISITED THE UNIVERSITY OF WORLD ECONOMY AND DIPLOMACY

This partnership directly supports our commitment to SDG 4 by laying the groundwork for new specialized and vocational training programs, aligning with Metric 4.3.3. Furthermore, it establishes a strategic framework to enable future collaborative activities that will be measured under additional key metrics, including 4.3.2 public events, 4.3.4 educational outreach, and 4.1.3 joint research publications.

On April 30, a meeting took place at the University of World Economy and Diplomacy with a delegation from Nazarbayev University headed by Acting President Ilesanmi Adesida.

During the meeting, the parties discussed a number of issues of mutual interest, such as joint educational programs, student and faculty exchanges, collaborative research, and strategic partnership.

I. Adesida expressed interest in developing long-term and fruitful cooperation with UWED.

In turn, S. Safoev noted that the partnership would contribute to knowledge exchange, experience sharing, and strengthening ties between the countries.

4.3.2: Public events

On November 28, 2024, a meeting with Doctor of Sociology, famous politician and public figure Dilorom Tashmukhamedova was held at the University of World Economy and Diplomacy.

At UWED, we believe quality education must prepare students for the world as it is today, not as it was yesterday. A prime example is this impactful lecture by the renowned sociologist D. Tashmukhamedova on the "New Media Environment."

Why was this so crucial for SDG 4?

This is our clearest example of Target 4.7 in action. We weren't just teaching a subject, we were teaching our students how to be safe, critical, and effective citizens in a digital world. They learned to discern truth from disinformation and to understand the psychological impact of the platforms they use daily; a fundamental skill for modern diplomacy and leadership.

Furthermore, this knowledge is a critical professional skill (Target 4.4)

The ability to critically analyze international relations and power dynamics.

A deeper understanding of how education intersects with global politics.

Ensure availability and sustainable management of water and sanitation for all

Access to water, sanitation and hygiene is a human right. To get back on track, key strategies include increasing sector-wide investment and capacity- building, promoting innovation and evidence-based action, enhancing cross-sectoral coordination and cooperation among all stakeholders, and adopting a more integrated and holistic approach to water management.

Water is essential not only to health, but also to poverty reduction, food security, peace and human rights, ecosystems and education.

WATER ISSUES RAISED IN RESEARCH PROJECT BY STUDENTS AND TEACHERS FOR SDG 6

The article "Issues of Water Use in Uzbekistan", authored by Ahmadjonov Shohruhbek and published on UZNAUKA, is primarily related to Sustainable Development Goal 4 (SDG 4): Quality Education, as it contributes to Target 4.7, which aims to ensure that all learners acquire the knowledge and skills needed to promote sustainable development. By addressing water use problems in Uzbekistan, the paper raises awareness about sustainable water management and promotes environmental education, encouraging students and researchers to engage in solving real-world sustainability challenges through scientific study.

In addition, this publication also aligns with Sustainable Development Goal 6 (SDG 6): Clean Water and Sanitation, particularly with metric 6.1.3 (Clean Water and Sanitation: Publications) and metric 6.1.2 (Clean Water and Sanitation: Field-Weighted Citation Impact – FWCI). These indicators assess the quantity and quality of a university's research output in the field of water and sanitation. The article contributes to these metrics by expanding the academic discourse on efficient water use, pollution prevention, and sustainable resource management in Uzbekistan.

The inclusion of this research under SDG 6 is justified because it directly supports the UN Targets 6.3 and 6.4, which focus on improving water quality, reducing pollution, and increasing water-use efficiency. By combining scientific research with educational outcomes, this work enhances the university's contribution both to academic excellence (through citations and publications) and to practical water management awareness within the community.

“THE TECHNICAL CONDITION OF RESERVOIRS IN UZBEKISTAN” MONOGRAPH — FOR SDG 6 (CLEAN WATER AND SANITATION)

Based on the project results, A monograph titled “The Technical Condition of Reservoirs in Uzbekistan” (authors: M.R. Ikramova, I.A. Ahmedkhodjaeva, Sh.Kh. Umarova; Tashkent: Lesson Press, 2024) was published and officially approved, confirming its scientific and practical relevance.

The work contributes to SDG 6 (Clean Water and Sanitation), specifically to Target 6.6, which focuses on protecting and restoring water-related ecosystems. By analyzing the state of Uzbekistan’s reservoirs, the research supports sustainable water resource management.

It aligns with:

Metric 6.1.3 – increasing research output on water and sanitation;

Metric 6.1.2 – improving the quality and impact of water-related studies;

Metric 6.5.5 – promoting cooperation on national water security.

Thus, the monograph strengthens the university’s contribution to evidence-based water management and ecosystem protection in Uzbekistan.

- In 2024, the “Program for Calculating the Water Balance of Reservoirs” was officially registered by the Ministry of Justice of the Republic of Uzbekistan (Certificate No. DGU 35130). Developed by M.Ikramova, Sh.Umarova, A.Xodjiyev, and D.Allayorova, the software models hydrological processes and optimizes the use of water resources for improved planning and management of reservoirs.
- This development contributes to Sustainable Development Goal 6 (Clean Water and Sanitation), particularly Target 6.4 - “By 2030, substantially increase water-use efficiency across all sectors and ensure sustainable withdrawals and supply of freshwater.”
- By introducing digital tools for analyzing and balancing water resources, the program directly advances Indicator 6.4.1 (water-use efficiency) and Indicator 6.4.2 (level of water stress based on water balance monitoring), thereby strengthening sustainable water management practices and enhancing national water security in Uzbekistan.

PROFESSOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF "TTVAMM" SEYTOV AYBEK JUMABAEVICH PARTICIPATED IN THE SCIENTIFIC AND PRACTICAL SEMINAR-EXHIBITION ON THE TOPIC "INNOVATIVE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE FIELD OF WATER MANAGEMENT"

In 2024, under the supervision of Professor A.J. Seitov, Haydarova Roziya Davronovna successfully completed her PhD dissertation in Technical Sciences titled "Optimal Control of Hydraulic Processes in Water Management Facilities Considering Multidimensional Spatial Distribution." The research was aimed at improving the efficiency and sustainability of water management systems through mathematical modeling and optimal control of hydraulic processes.

This scientific work directly supports Sustainable Development Goal 6 (Clean Water and Sanitation), particularly Target 6.4 - "By 2030, substantially increase water-use efficiency across all sectors and ensure sustainable withdrawals and supply of freshwater to address water scarcity."

By developing methods for rational water distribution and optimization of hydraulic processes, the dissertation contributes to enhancing water-use efficiency (SDG Indicator 6.4.1) and supporting sustainable water resource management (SDG Indicator 6.4.2), thereby strengthening the scientific and technological foundations for achieving SDG 6 in Uzbekistan.

Research on Sustainable Water Management under SDG 6

A group of faculty members from the University of World Economy and Diplomacy - M. Ikramova, S. Umarova, O. Ikromov, and Q. Eshquvatov - published a research paper dedicated to monitoring the capacity of the Talimarjon Reservoir using Google Earth Engine, which directly supports Sustainable Development Goal 6 (Clean Water and Sanitation). Their study focuses on using remote sensing and geospatial analysis to measure and manage water resources more effectively.

- The research is closely aligned with Target 6.4 - "By 2030, substantially increase water-use efficiency across all sectors and ensure sustainable withdrawals and supply of freshwater." By monitoring reservoir capacity, the study contributes to:
- – assessing water storage and its temporal changes to ensure sustainable freshwater supply;
- – supporting efficient allocation and withdrawal decisions to prevent overexploitation;
- – enhancing cross-sectoral water management through spatial and temporal data;
- – providing evidence-based insights for sustainable water policy.
- Overall, this research advances Indicator 6.4.1 (water-use efficiency) and Indicator 6.4.2 (level of water stress), promoting data-driven and sustainable water management practices in Uzbekistan.

TO MAKE SURE THAT WE MEET THE GLOBAL GOALS

"Empowering Change, Shaping Futures: University Actions for a Sustainable World"

Ensure access to affordable, reliable, sustainable and modern energy for all

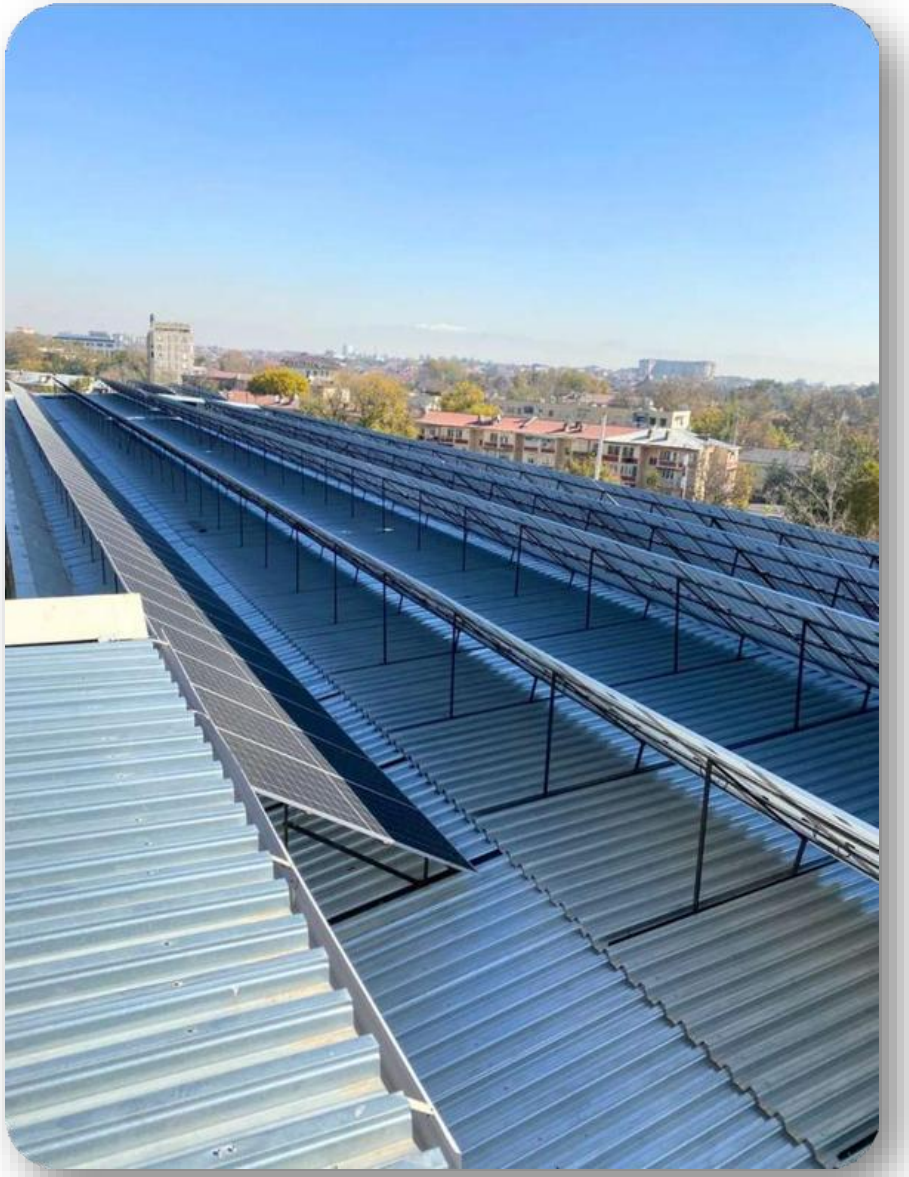

The cost, dependability, and efficiency of renewable energy solutions are increasing daily. Since our current reliance on fossil fuels is unsustainable and detrimental to the environment, we must alter how we generate and use energy. In order to combat climate change, one of the greatest threats to our survival, it is imperative that these new energy solutions be put into place as quickly as possible.

Аннотация:

За последние два десятилетия сфера управления проектами переживает глубокую трансформацию, вызванную быстрыми достижениями Четвертой промышленной революции и эпохи цифровой трансформации. Эта трансформация меняет саму структуру управления проектами, требуя переоценки традиционных практик и принятия новых, инновационных подходов. Непреложным фактом является то, что инновации играют ключевую роль в успешном внедрении Agile-подходов, обеспечивая гибкость, эффективность и ориентацию на клиента, что в итоге приводит к достижению поставленных целей проекта.

UWED INITIATIVES FOR DECENT WORK AND ECONOMIC GROWTH: ADVANCING SDG 8

The University of World Economy and Diplomacy (UWED) has undertaken numerous initiatives supporting Sustainable Development Goal 8 (SDG 8) on Decent Work and Economic Growth. UWED fosters inclusive economic growth by promoting productive employment, especially for youth, and advocating for safe and equitable workplaces. Notable actions include faculty participation in global trade and economic development programs, such as the WTI Winter Academy, which enrich UWED's curriculum with international insights on economic diplomacy. UWED also organizes conferences and roundtables addressing trade policies, Uzbekistan's WTO accession, and the 2030 economic strategy, engaging students and experts in discussions on economic resilience and sustainability. Research by UWED faculty on agriculture, tourism, and trade further supports economic growth by enhancing export standards and evaluating WTO membership impacts on Uzbekistan's economy. Additionally, UWED integrates SDG 8-related topics into its curriculum, providing students with essential knowledge to contribute to sustainable economic development.

DRIVING ECONOMIC GROWTH AND DECENT WORK: THE ROLE OF THE CENTRAL BANK BOARD IN ADVANCING SDG 8 IN UZBEKISTAN

- Nishanbay Sirajiddinov

- Professor of the department "International economics" of the University of World Economy and Diplomacy, D.Sc. (Econ.)- Independent member of the Board at the Central Bank of the Republic of Uzbekistan.

- As a board member, one can influence policy decisions that ensure fair lending practices, support small and medium enterprises (SMEs), and enable access to financial services for underserved communities, all of which drive inclusive economic growth. Additionally, by setting stable interest rates and managing inflation, the Board helps secure a predictable economic environment that empowers businesses to expand, create jobs, and ensure decent work conditions. Furthermore, promoting financial literacy and protecting labor rights within the financial system aligns with the goal of creating resilient economies. Through these efforts, board members directly contribute to the sustainable and inclusive economic progress essential for meeting SDG 8 targets.

Indicator 8.1.1 - annual growth rate of real GDP per capita, and Indicator 8.2.1 - growth rate of real GDP per employed person

- Indicator 8.1.1, which measures the annual growth rate of real GDP per capita, and Indicator 8.2.1, which tracks the growth rate of real GDP per employed person, are directly aligned with Sustainable Development Goal 8 (SDG 8: Decent Work and Economic Growth), as evidenced by the participation of UWED Professor L.M. Tashpulatova as an expert in a television program on reforms to liberalize and modernize Uzbekistan's economy. By providing expert analysis on economic liberalization and modernization, Professor Tashpulatova contributed to the dissemination of knowledge regarding policies that were designed to promote private sector development, enhance productivity, and promote inclusive economic growth. Her involvement is also consistent with Indicator 8.3.1, which emphasizes the proportion of informal employment. This indicator is achieved by advocating for reforms that enhance institutional capacity, enhance the business climate, and generate formal, sustainable employment opportunities. During this engagement, the discourse served to enhance public comprehension and policymaking processes, thereby fostering a more resilient and dynamic economy that aligns with the objectives of SDG 8.

"Empowering Change, Shaping Futures: University Actions for a Sustainable World"

Build resilient infrastructure, promote inclusive and sustainable industrialization and foster innovation

Our contribution to SDG 9 is not measured in concrete and steel, but in the quality of our ideas, the impact of our research, and the caliber of our graduates. We are the intellectual engine driving Uzbekistan's transformation. This presentation will show you how we are fueling progress across all three pillars of Goal 9: Infrastructure, Industrialization, and Innovation.

Artificial intelligence is the foundation of future industrialization.

This initiative supports SDG 9.1.1, which measures the scale and quality of university research related to industry, innovation, and infrastructure. By organizing academic discussions and producing research on artificial intelligence, the university expands scientific understanding of emerging technologies that drive industrial transformation. UWED organized a key discussion on the topic of Artificial Intelligence on April 29th. We do not simply follow technological trends – we create the scientific foundation for their meaningful integration into our country's economy and legal system.

Participation in high-level international forums and networks demonstrates the university's active role in advancing global research and policy dialogue on innovation and infrastructure. This activity directly supports SDG 9.1.1, which assesses academic output related to industrial innovation and infrastructure development. UWED is a recognized voice in high-level international forums, shaping the future of technology, research, and innovation in Central Asia.

Discussing economic transformations outlined in the President's national address

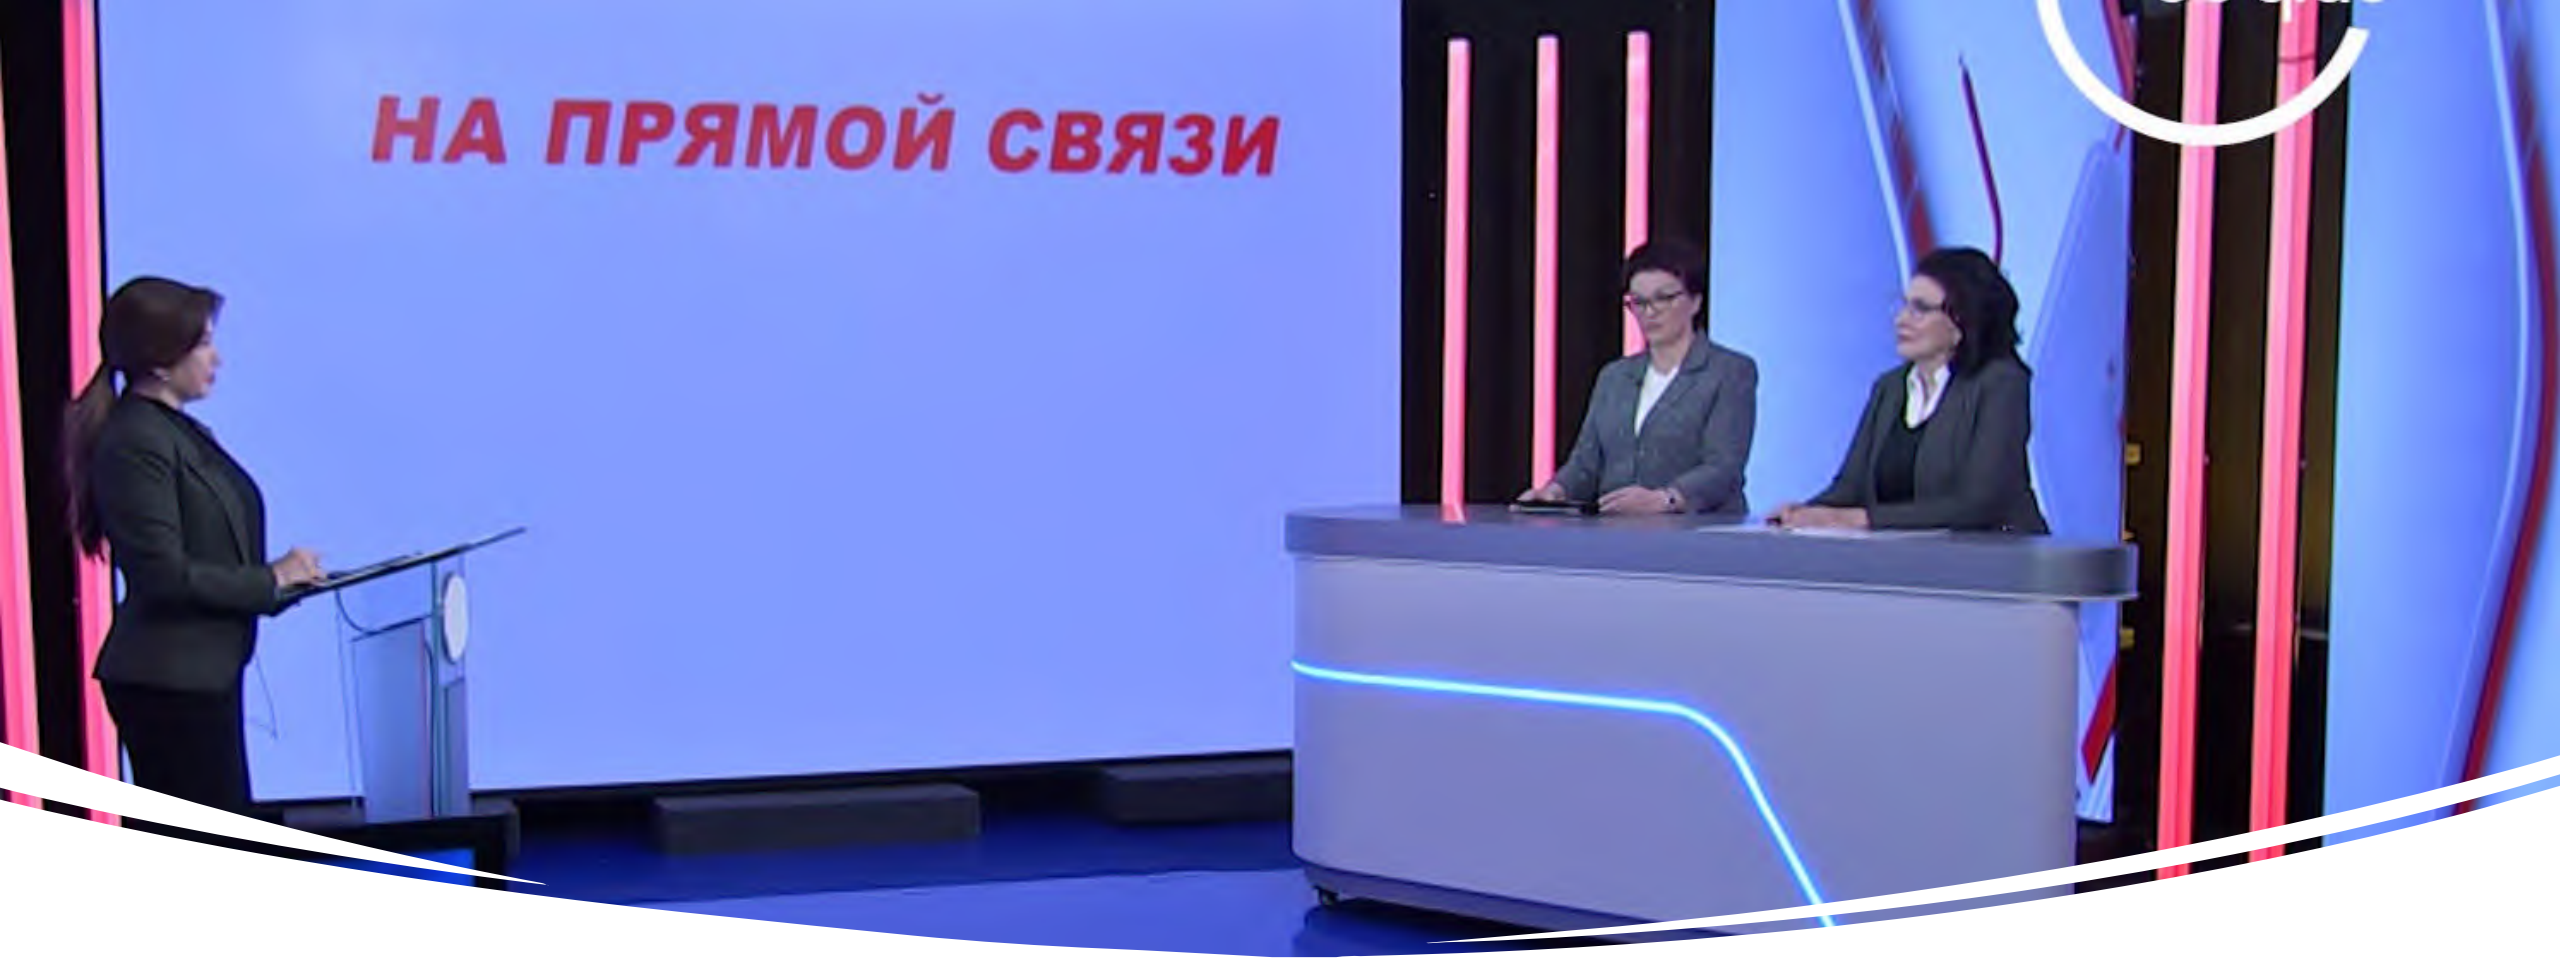

As part of our contribution to achieving SDG Goal 9.2.2, by fostering a well-informed public, we provide the public support and understanding needed for inclusive and sustainable industrialization. Through academic commentary and analysis, the university provides “soft infrastructure” for an economically literate public, fostering awareness and support for sustainable industrial growth.

Fostering public understanding of sustainable industrialization and economic policy

The activity advances SDG Target 9.2.3, which promotes inclusive and sustainable industrialization. By contributing expert knowledge through national media discussions on economic reforms, faculty members help build a well-informed society that supports industrial transformation. The participation of teachers in the national television broadcast (Mahalla TV) on the topic of “Economic reforms" shows the direct impact of the UWED on public understanding and support of industrialization processes.

In November 2024, the participation of L.M. Tashpulatova and R.U. Tursunova, professors of UWED, as experts in a television program on the development of Uzbekistan's creative economy is consistent with Sustainable Development Goal 9 (SDG 9: Industry, Innovation, and Infrastructure), particularly Indicator 9.2.1, which advocates for sustainable and inclusive industrialization. The professors played a role in increasing awareness of innovation-based sectors as new engines of industrial and economic development by emphasizing the potential of creative industries to drive economic growth, generate jobs, and expand export potential. Their participation contributes to SDG 9 by underscoring the significance of innovation and creativity in the enhancement of Uzbekistan's industrial competitiveness and diversification.

Infrastructure for Innovation: A Space That Inspires

The creation of modern collaborative spaces for research and entrepreneurship illustrates the university's commitment to SDG 9.3.1, which measures the generation of sustainable spin-off companies rooted in institutional intellectual property. Our infrastructure is not about walls; it's about the environment. UWED's modern, open spaces, like our eco-library, are intentionally designed for collaboration and creativity.

From Idea to Impact: The UWED & Incubation Center

Student idea

Incubation Center (Mentorship, Resources)

Startup Project

This initiative exemplifies SDG 9.3.1, which measures a university's ability to generate sustainable spin-off companies based on its own intellectual property and research capacity.

Global Partnerships for Local Resilience: Building a Climate-Ready Uzbekistan

We integrate sustainability into infrastructure and industry. This project perfectly demonstrates how UWED works towards the environmental sustainability of industrialization through international partnerships. This is a contribution to the “Green" modernization of industry. Such cooperation strengthens the link between academic expertise and industrial innovation, enhancing the economic and environmental resilience of local production systems in line with SDG Target 9.4.1.

Our Campus: A Blueprint for Sustainable Infrastructure

Our commitment to SDG 9 begins right here, on our campus. We believe in leading by example. Our smart infrastructure – from energy-efficient facilities managed by IoT systems to state-of-the-art digital learning platforms in every classroom – is a living laboratory for Target 9.4.1. By integrating technology and sustainability into our physical environment, we exemplify the principle of “Sustainable industrialization through innovation”.

9.4.2 The Eco-Library: Where Sustainability Meets Knowledge

By expanding digital resources to reduce paper use and energy consumption, the Eco-Library exemplifies sustainable design principles. It provides equitable access to knowledge while minimizing the institution's ecological footprint, showing how environmental responsibility can be embedded in academic infrastructure.

The project reflects SDG Target 9.4.3, emphasizing environmentally responsible construction and facility management. Our commitment to sustainability permeates every aspect of our campus – our wellness facilities. It incorporates advanced water recycling and energy-efficient systems, serving as a practical model for responsible resource management in construction. It proves that any piece of infrastructure, big or small, can be an opportunity to innovate and build sustainably.

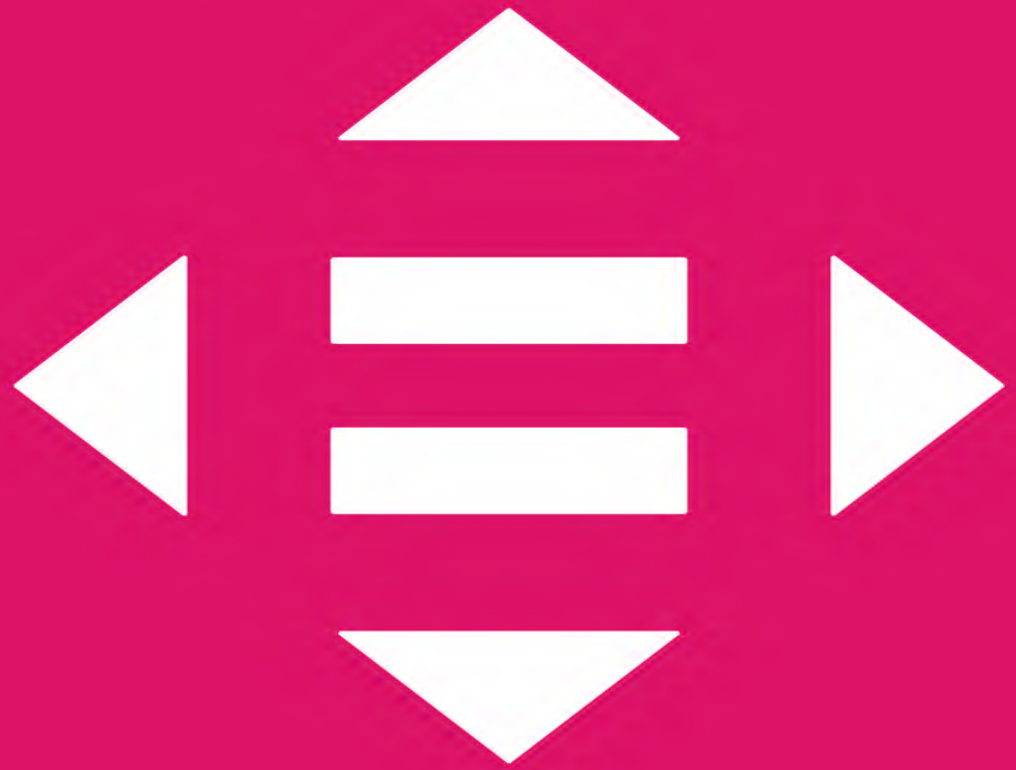

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOAL

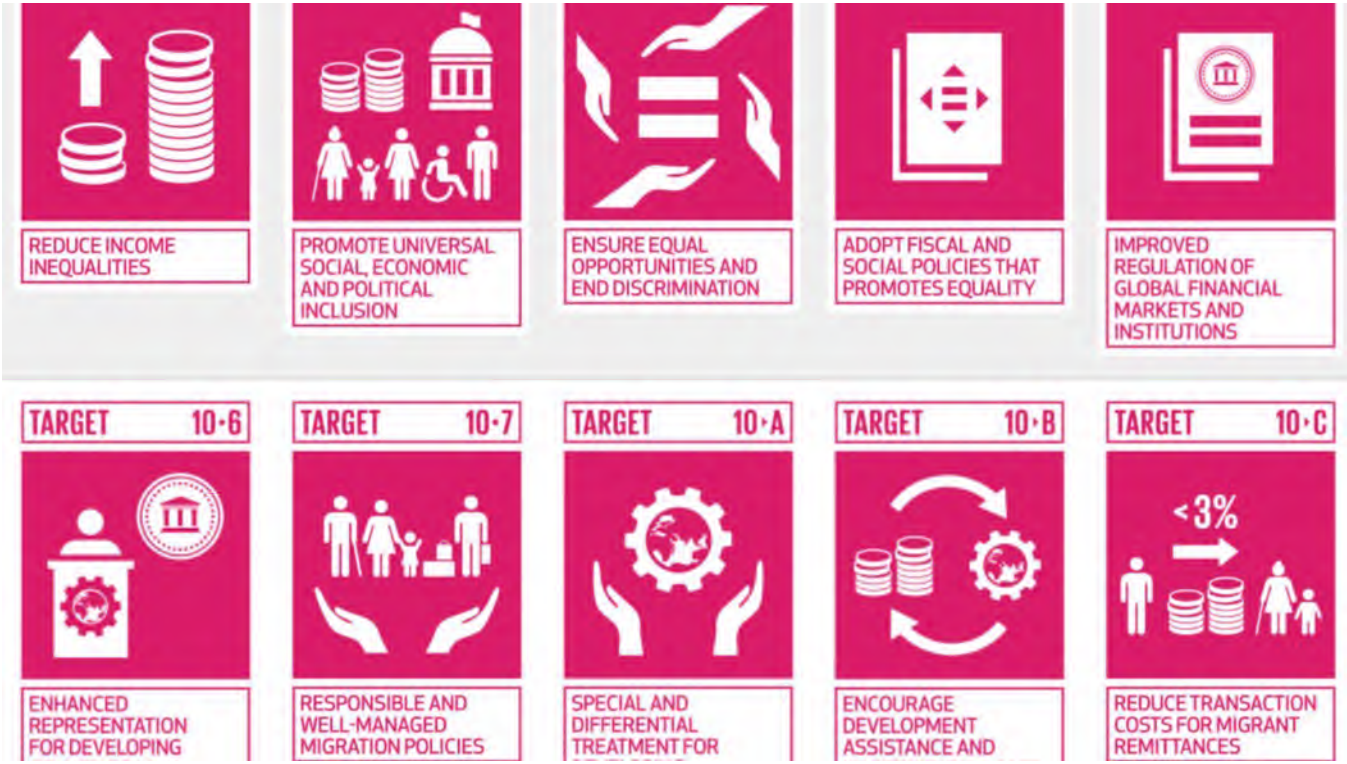

Committed to Building a Resilient, Innovative, and Sustainable Future

10 REDUCED INEQUALITIES

UWED plays an essential role in advancing Sustainable Development Goal 10, which aims to reduce inequalities within and among countries. Through research, education, and community engagement, universities can drive initiatives that promote social, economic, and political inclusion. By creating equal opportunities and supporting marginalized communities, universities contribute to SDG 10 by advocating for policies that reduce income inequalities and fostering an inclusive campus environment that values diversity. University activities, such as community service, scholarship programs, inclusive policies, and partnerships with local organizations, help bridge social divides, encourage fair resource distribution, and prepare students to be leaders in achieving a more equitable world.

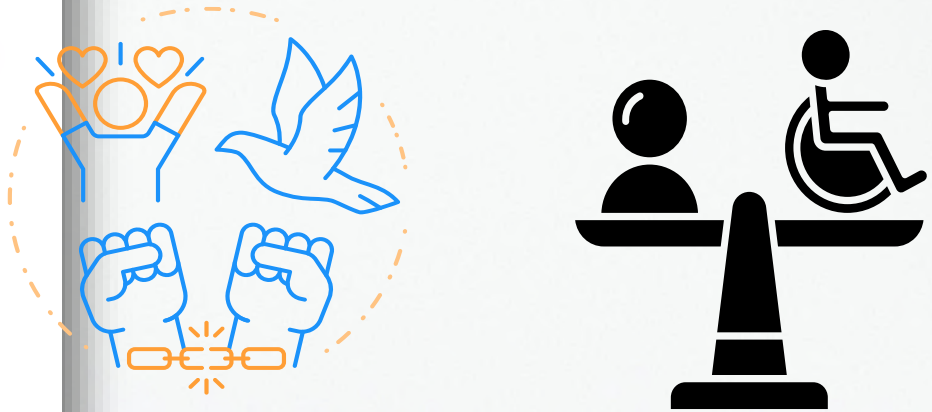

10 REDUCED INEQUALITIES

UWED POLICIES TOWARDS REDUCED INEQUALITIES

The UWED Policy on Employment Against Modern Slavery directly supports SDG 10: Reduced Inequalities by ensuring equal, fair, and transparent employment opportunities for all students and staff. It prohibits discrimination, forced labour, and human trafficking, while promoting inclusion, gender equality, and protection of human rights. This policy helps reduce social and economic disparities, empowering vulnerable groups and creating a safe, just, and inclusive academic environment.

The UWED Anti-Discrimination Employment Policy directly contributes to SDG 10: Reduced Inequalities by ensuring equal rights and opportunities for all students and staff regardless of gender, age, disability, religion, or ethnicity. The policy establishes clear mechanisms to prevent and address discrimination, promotes inclusion, and guarantees a safe and respectful environment within the university. Through this framework, UWED advances social and economic equality, supports vulnerable groups, and strengthens institutional commitment to fairness and human dignity in line with the UN 2030 Agenda.

UWED POLICIES TOWARDS REDUCED INEQUALITIES

The UWED Pay Equality Policy supports SDG 10: Reduced Inequalities by ensuring equal pay for equal work, regardless of gender, age, or background. It promotes fairness, transparency, and inclusion in salary practices, prevents discrimination, and regularly monitors pay equity to uphold equal opportunities and social justice within the university.

The UWED Equal Rights in Employment Outsourcing Policy ensures fair and equal treatment for all employees, including outsourced staff. It prohibits any form of discrimination based on gender, age, disability, religion, or ethnicity and guarantees equal opportunities in hiring, pay, and working conditions. The policy aligns with national and international labour standards, promoting inclusion, transparency, and social protection for all workers within the university's employment practices.

UWED DISCUSSED THE IMPORTANCE OF FACTOR ANALYSIS IN SOCIOLOGICAL RESEARCH USING THE EXAMPLE OF ATTITUDES TOWARDS MIGRANTS IN GERMANY

On November 29 of this year, the University of World Economy and Diplomacy held a training and methodological seminar on the topic: "The Importance of Factor Analysis in Sociological Research. Application to Issues of External Migration in Germany."

Doctor of Physical and Mathematical Sciences, Professor G. Raimova spoke at the seminar organized by the Department of System Analysis and Mathematical Modeling. The speaker presented information on factor analysis and its application in sociological research.

It was noted that the choice of the right method of sociological survey is critically important for obtaining reliable and relevant data. One of the modern methods - factor analysis allows solving two important problems of the researcher: to describe the object of measurement comprehensively and at the same time compactly. With the help of factor analysis, it is possible to identify hidden variable factors.

ROUNDTABLE “WOMEN IN THE STATE STRATEGY” (UWED DORMITORY, 20 DECEMBER)

On 20 December, UWED held a roundtable for female students titled “Women in the State Strategy,” organized by the UWED Women’s Advisory Council (Chair: Prof. E. Sultanova) with faculty from the Department of Political Science (A. Dzhuraeva, N. Kushaeva). Participants included Major Tamara Molashkhia (Mirzo-Ulugbek District Department of Internal Affairs) and Sh. Boymatov (Head of UWED Prevention Department). Speakers discussed the state’s role in ensuring women’s rights, national gender-equality policies, women’s socio-political participation, and the legal, economic and social frameworks for realizing constitutional rights – situating achievements and remaining challenges in light of international norms and the UN SDGs. The session also addressed student safety and awareness, including risks of drug and human trafficking, and featured comparative insights on women’s status in Central/Northern Europe and Arab-Muslim countries (e.g., ongoing reforms in Saudi Arabia). The discussion was interactive, with students’ questions answered.

SDG 10 mapping:

Target 10.2 – Inclusion: Promotes social and political inclusion of women through empowerment, voice, and participation.

Target 10.3 – Equal opportunity / anti-discrimination: Focus on policies and mechanisms that reduce discriminatory outcomes and ensure equal rights.

10 REDUCED INEQUALITIES

Reducing income inequalities

- Providing full scholarships to low-income students directly supports SDG 10 by promoting social and economic inclusion and helping to reduce inequality within and among countries. When vulnerable groups gain access to higher education without financial barriers, they have a better chance of realizing their potential, securing better jobs, and improving their socioeconomic status. Scholarships for low-income students help bridge the educational gap, which is often a root cause of intergenerational poverty and inequality. By investing in these students, institutions not only empower individuals but also contribute to building a more equitable society where everyone, regardless of background, can succeed. This aligns with SDG 10's targets by ensuring equal opportunities, reducing income inequalities, and promoting social mobility for all.

PROGRAM FOR ENTRANCE EXAMS IN FOREIGN LANGUAGE (ENGLISH) FOR ALL TYPES OF SPECIALIZATIONS (FOR THE VISUALLY IMPAIRED)

The Program for Entrance Exams in Foreign Language (English) for All Types of Specializations (for the Visually Impaired) supports Sustainable Development Goal 10 by promoting social inclusion and reducing inequalities in education. By providing specialized accommodations and an inclusive examination program, the initiative ensures that visually impaired students have equal opportunities to pursue higher education. This approach helps to remove barriers that typically prevent students with disabilities from fully participating in the academic environment, thereby fostering a more inclusive educational system. Such efforts align with SDG 10's targets to empower all individuals, reduce inequalities, and create a level playing field for marginalized and vulnerable groups.

UWED INITIATIVES FOR REDUCING INEQUALITY: PROGRESS TOWARDS SDG 10

The University of World Economy and Diplomacy (UWED) actively supports Sustainable Development Goals 10. To advance SDG 10, UWED implements policies for inclusivity, including scholarships for low-income students, accessible programs for visually impaired students, and community service initiatives. These efforts position UWED as a proactive institution committed to sustainability, economic inclusivity, and reducing inequalities within the education sector and beyond.

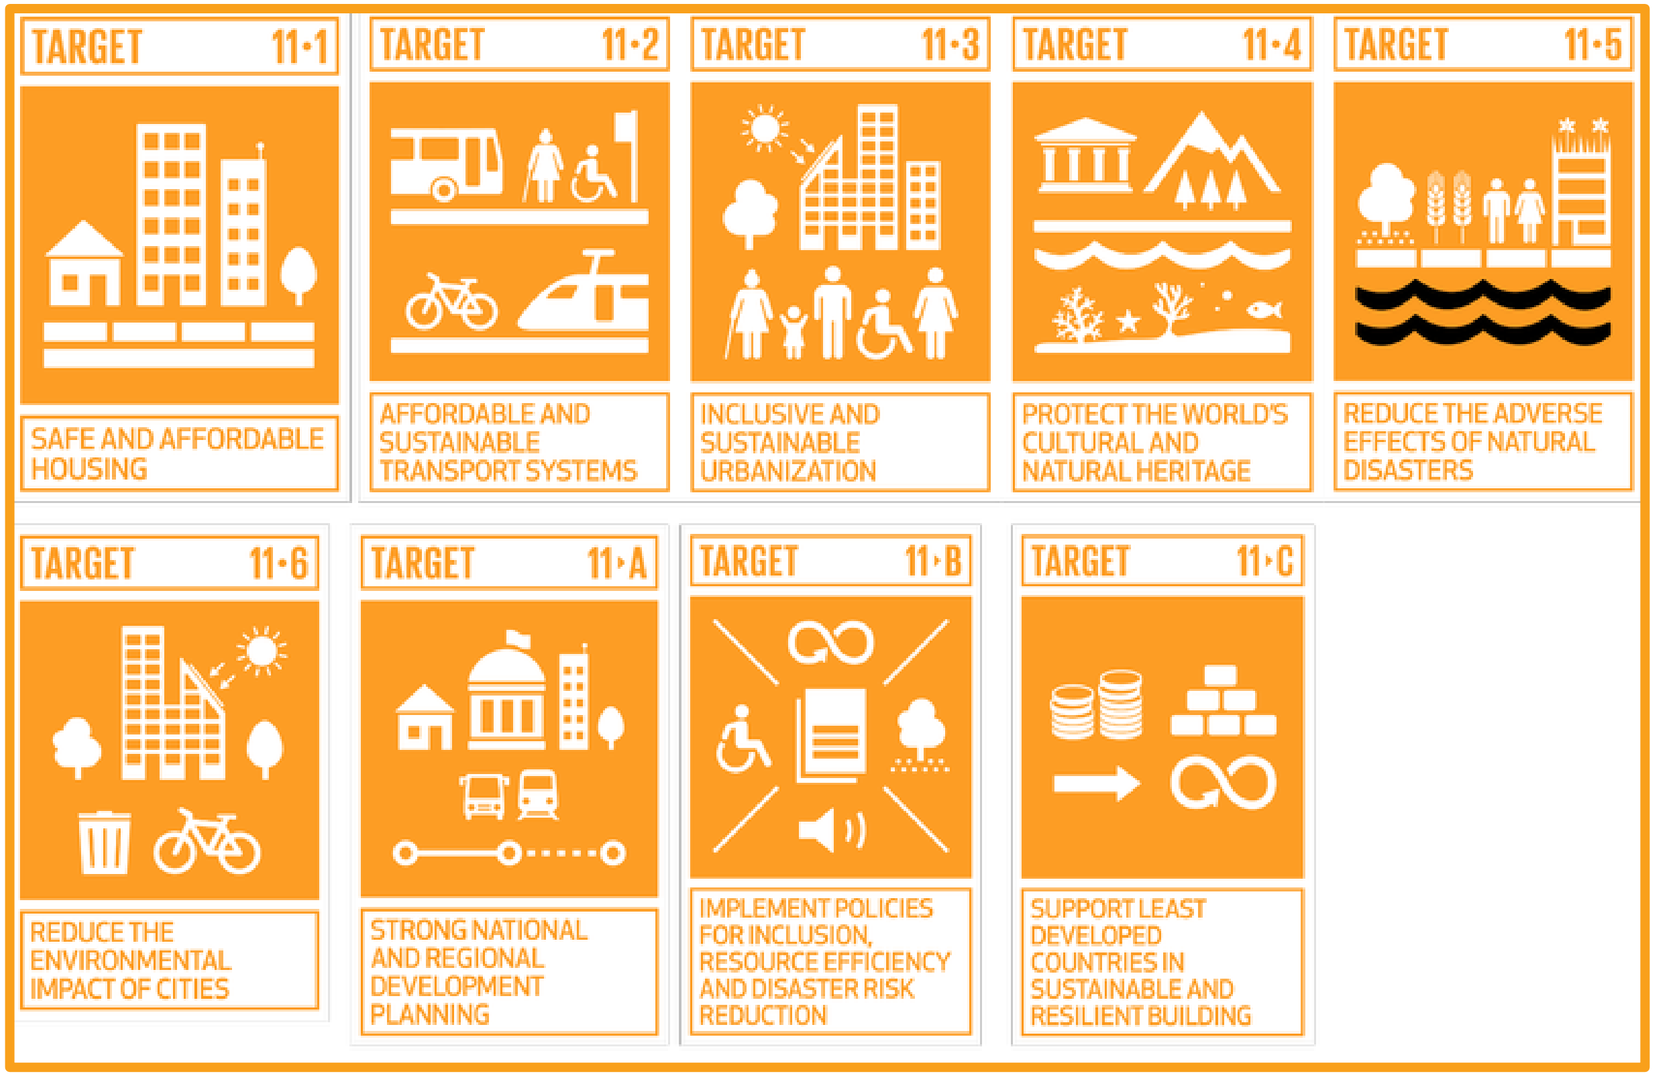

EVERYONE CAN HELP TO MAKE SURE THAT WE MEET THE GLOBAL GOALS

"Empowering Change, Shaping Futures: University Actions for a Sustainable World"

Make cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable

The University of World Economy and Diplomacy (UWED) recognizes that the prosperity of nations is intrinsically linked to the sustainability of their urban centers. Sustainable Development Goal 11 – making cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient, and sustainable – is not merely an environmental challenge; it is a profound economic and diplomatic one.

BUILDING THE FUTURE: EXPERT DIALOGUE ON GREEN CONSTRUCTION & URBAN PLANNING

On April 17th, we hosted an exclusive meeting for our students with leading international experts on green building and urban planning. The discussion went deep into practical solutions for Uzbekistan, from green construction standards to waste management. This initiative is a direct investment in Target 11.3.1, as we are building the capacity of our future leaders to plan and manage the inclusive and sustainable cities of tomorrow.

STARTING AT HOME: GREENING THE UWED CAMPUS

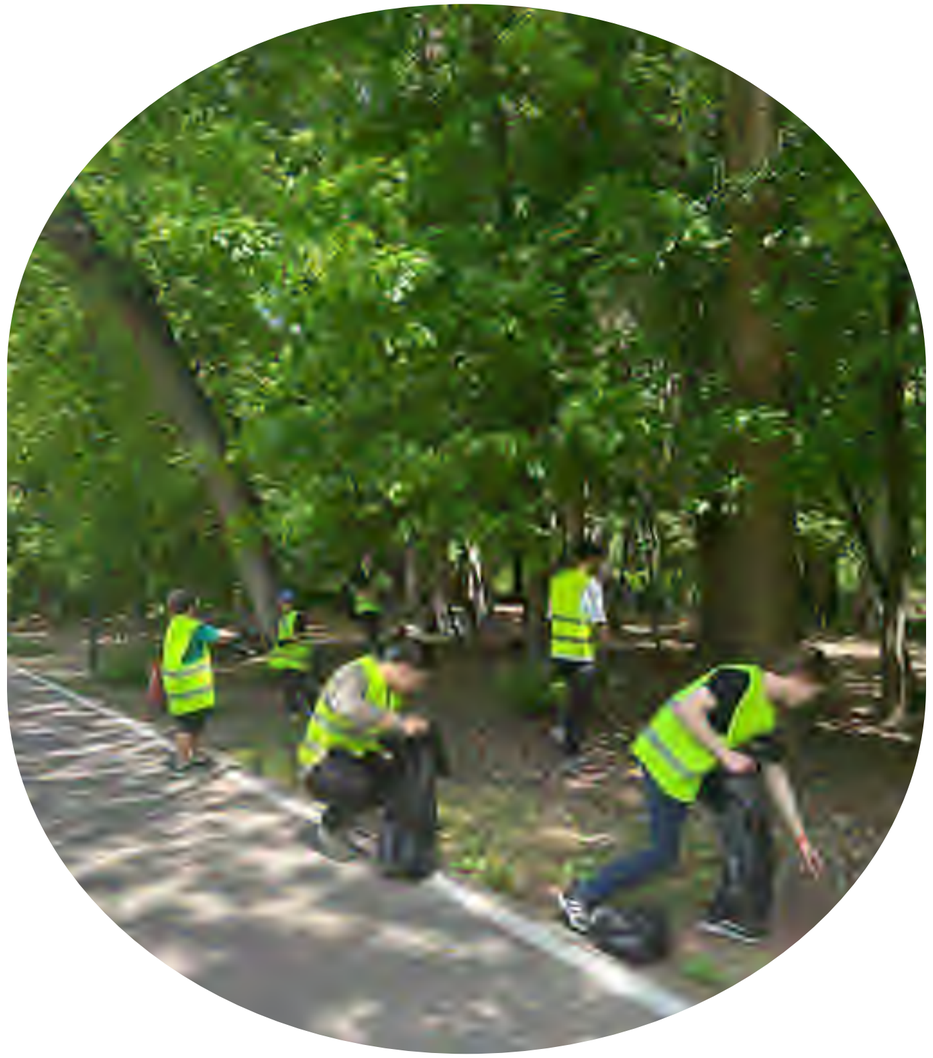

OUR COMMITMENT TO SDG 11 BEGINS RIGHT WHERE WE LEARN AND WORK – ON OUR OWN CAMPUS. ON MARCH 31ST, OUR UWED ECO CLUB LED A CAMPUS-WIDE 'HASHAR,' A COMMUNITY EFFORT TO BEAUTIFY OUR SHARED SPACES. BY PLANTING NEW TREES AND IMPROVING OUR LANDSCAPE, WE ARE NOT ONLY REDUCING OUR LOCAL ENVIRONMENTAL FOOTPRINT, AS TARGET 11.6.1.

TARGET 11.6

Protecting our city's 'green lungs': action at the Tashkent Botanical Garden. It provides clear evidence of collaboration with government and community stakeholders to expand green areas, aligning with SDG target 11.6.2 on improving urban environmental quality.

ANSWERING THE NATIONAL CALL: PLANTING 100 TREES for 'Yashil Makon

We are proud to be active participants in the nationwide 'Yashil Makon' project. In a university-wide marathon, our students, professors, and staff came together to plant over 100 new trees on our campus. This is more than just planting trees; it's a powerful statement of our collective commitment.

Informing the Nation: Tackling Urban Air Quality on Public Television

Our experts play a crucial role in this process by bringing data-driven analysis to national conversations. On April 2nd, Professor Suriya Turaeva appeared on the 'Dunyo bo'ylab' channel to discuss one of Tashkent's most pressing issues: air quality. By examining the impact of vehicle emissions, she contributed to a more nuanced public discourse, which is a vital first step in addressing the adverse environmental impact of cities, as mandated by SDG Target 11.6.3.

Aligned with SDG 11.4.1, which encourages universities to measure and set targets for sustainable practices such as mobility, energy efficiency, and climate education. By engaging students in climate-change awareness and integrating environmental topics into teaching and public dialogue, the university demonstrates measurable progress toward sustainable behaviour and urban resilience.

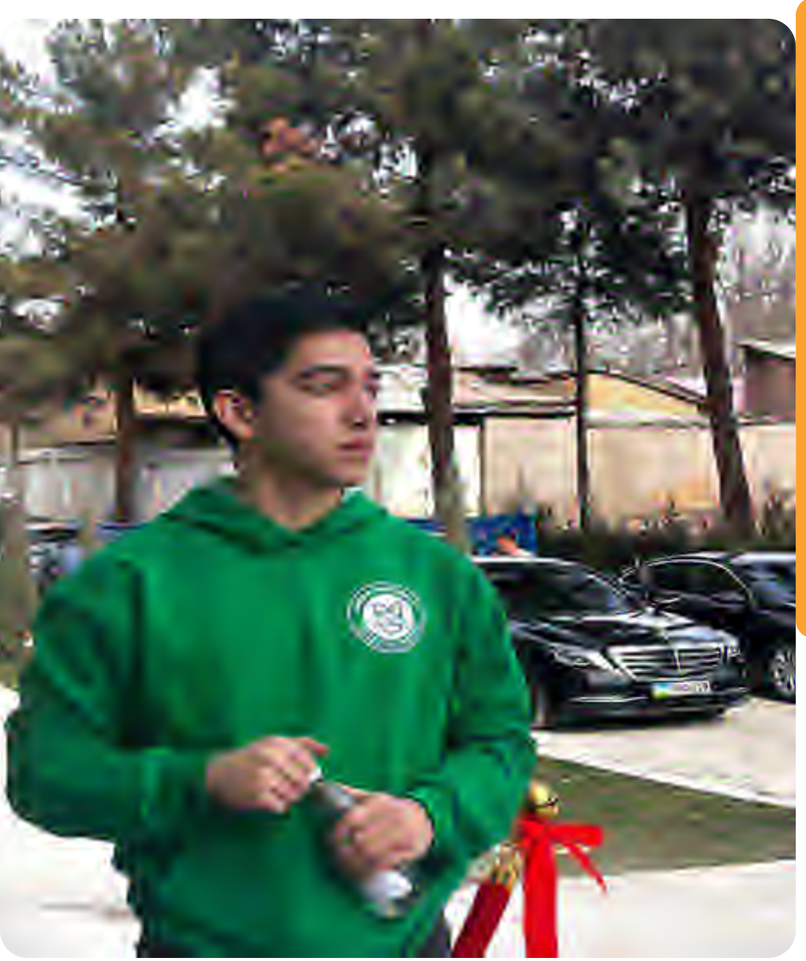

Our approach to climate action is comprehensive. On one hand, our representatives participate in high-level policy discussions, such as the national conference of the Ecological Party, to ensure that environmental health is on the political agenda. On the other hand, we focus on education. Our interactive session on the impacts of climate change, held on December 12th, empowered students to understand these challenges not as abstract concepts, but as real-world issues affecting their future. This dual strategy of policy engagement and youth empowerment is our way of building a resilient society, fully aligned with the goals of Target 11.4.1.

ENGAGING WITH THE GLOBAL AGENDA: UWED AT THE POST-COP28 YOUTH SUMMIT

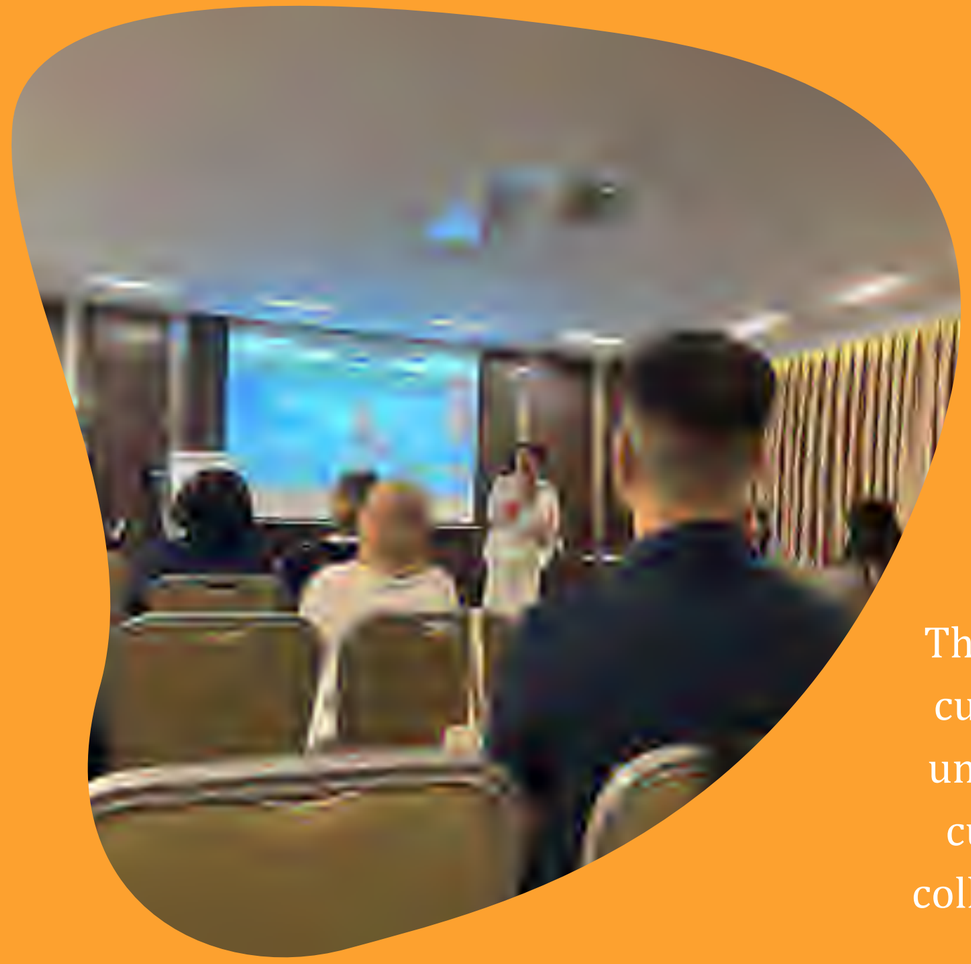

UWED ECO CLUB members served as volunteers, gaining first-hand experience in organizing high-level international climate events.

This wasn't just about helping out; it was an immersive learning experience, connecting them directly with the international climate policy agenda. This hands-on engagement prepares them to become future leaders who can develop and implement the integrated climate resilience plans called for in SDG Target 11.4.1.

PRESENTING OUR VISION: THE 'UWED GREEN UNIVERSITY' CONCEPT

We are not just taking action; we have a strategy. At the 2024 Sustainable Living Festival, Professor Suriya Turaeva officially presented our vision for transforming UWED into a 'Green University.' This comprehensive plan outlines our long-term commitment to sustainable campus management, resource efficiency, and embedding environmental education across our curriculum. This is a perfect example of developing the integrated policies and plans mentioned in Target 11.4.1, showcasing our university as a model for sustainable urban development.

BUILDING A NATIONAL MOVEMENT: LEADING ECO-INITIATIVES AMONG UNIVERSITIES

This initiative corresponds to SDG 11.3.1, which recognizes investment in cultural heritage and community-based urban planning. By coordinating universities to share sustainable-development practices and promoting a culture of green innovation nationwide, UWED strengthens community collaboration and contributes to inclusive, sustainable urban management.

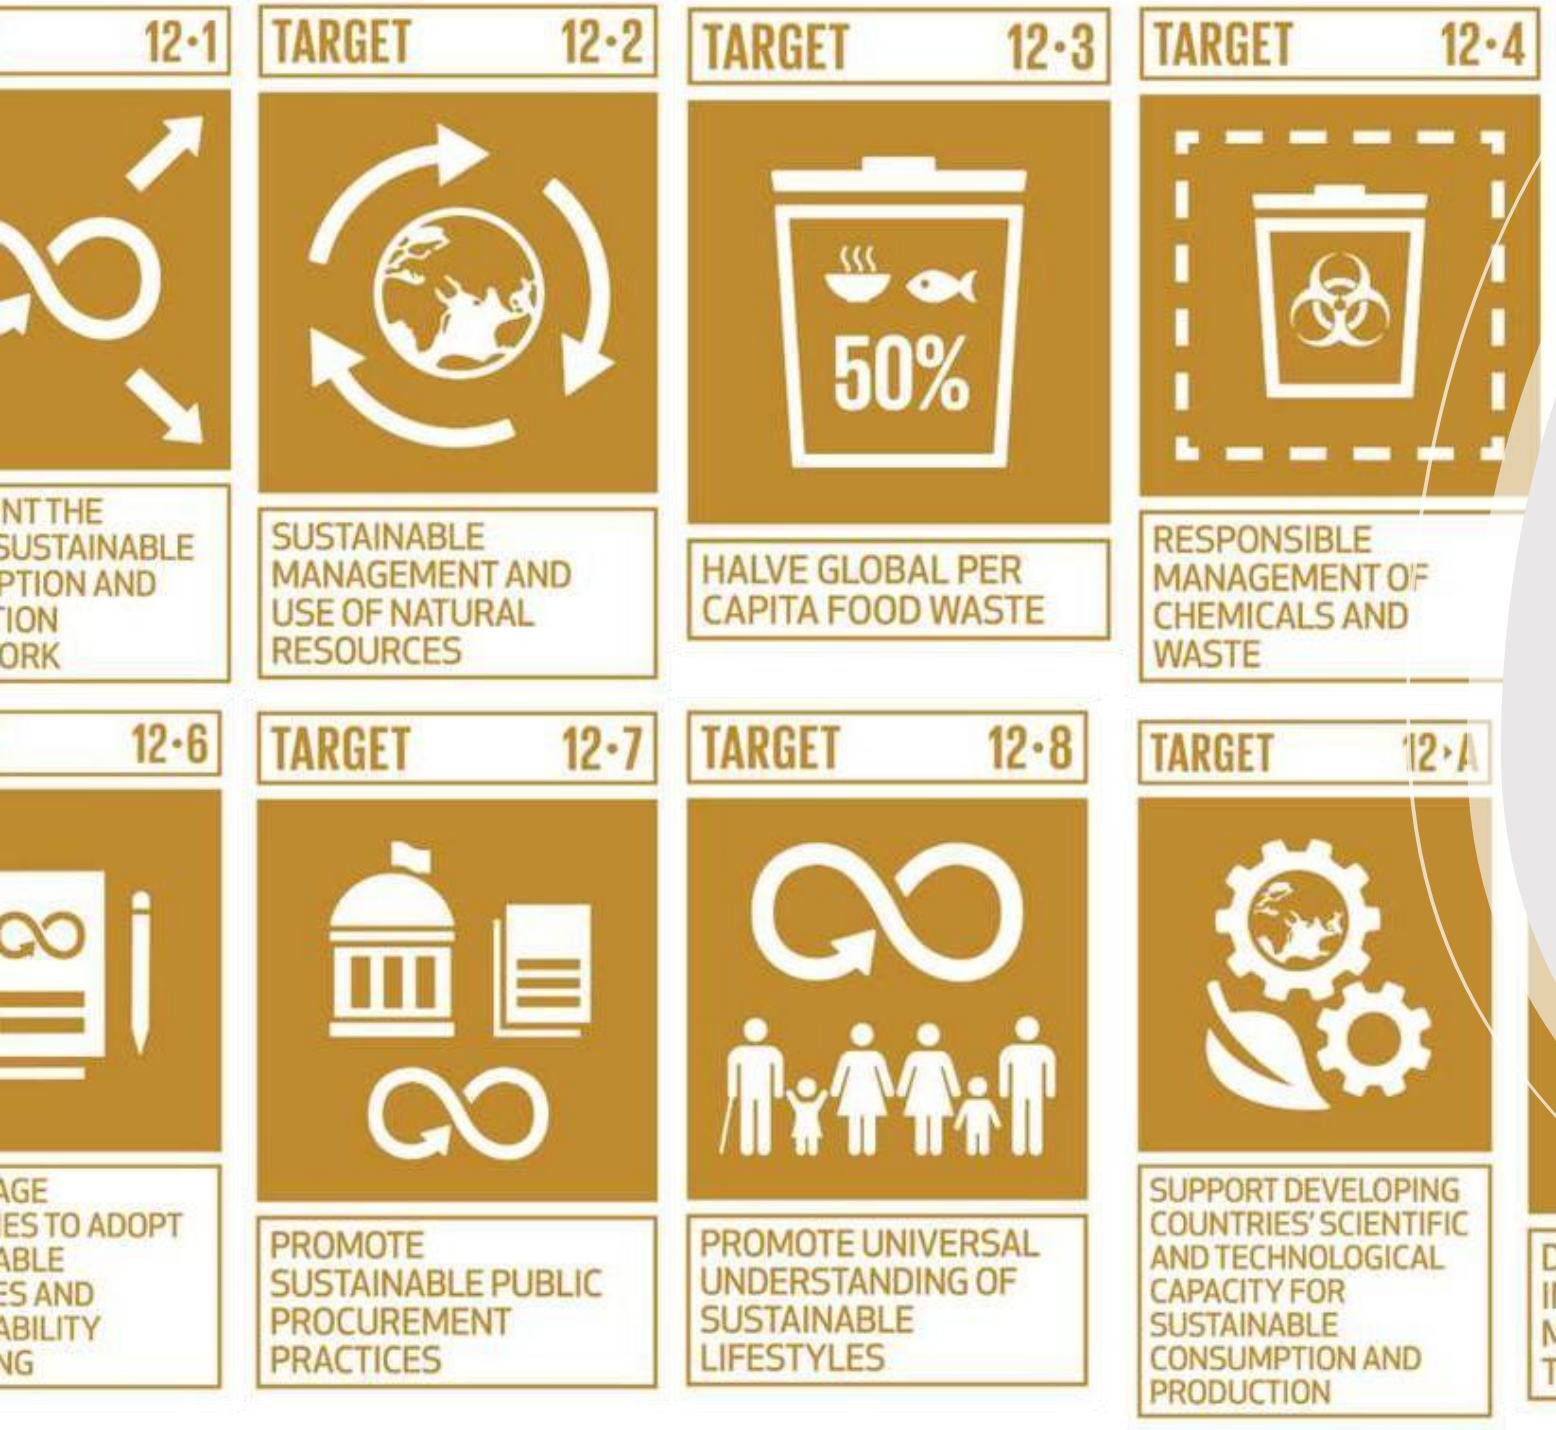

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOAL

A sustainable city is built upon sound decisions and effective governance.

These papers mostly address sustainable industrial development, digital transformation, export diversification, optimal utilization of natural resources, and ecologically responsible agriculture methods. Scholarly research by Sultanova, Gulyamova, Maraimova, Kabulov, Rasulov, and Ikramova emphasizes the amalgamation of information technologies, digital economy frameworks, and environmental monitoring instruments to foster sustainability in production and consumption. These studies collectively advance the objectives of SDG 12, namely in enhancing resource efficiency, fostering sustainable agriculture, encouraging responsible industrialization, and increasing knowledge of sustainable practices. The increasing proportion of these publications signifies that Uzbekistan's academic community is progressively aligning its research agenda with global sustainability concerns and cultivating a knowledge base that promotes ecologically responsible economic growth.

12 RESPONSIBLE CONSUMPTION AND PRODUCTION

12.2. Research and Applied Projects on Resource Management

• UWED significantly engages in sustainable development by participating in initiatives focused on “Water diplomacy and resource management in Central Asia”, highlighting the effective utilization of natural resources. These activities immediately promote “SDG 12 – Responsible Consumption and Production”, as the efficient use of water and land underpins sustainable production systems. Leveraging this expertise, UWED intended to initiate an applied research project on “Sustainable Resource Utilization in Production Systems”, concentrating on aspects such as industrial water reclamation and the repurposing of agricultural by-products. The findings of this research has been being disseminated via annual articles in UWED’s academic journal, facilitating knowledge exchange and underscoring the university’s dedication to sustainable and resource-efficient development.

12.8. Joint Course on Sustainability Studies

- Between September 2024 and January 2025, UWED, in collaboration with the University of Tsukuba (Japan) and additional partners, conducted a joint course titled “Introduction to Theories of International Relations and Sustainability Studies” for third-year undergraduates from UWED’s faculties of International Relations, Political Science, and International Economics.
- Incorporating sustainability into academic curricula cultivates future professionals who comprehend ethical consumption and production. The course facilitates the development of knowledge and competencies to tackle sustainable production and consumption challenges within the economy, linking higher education with Sustainable Development Goal 12.

Discussion of SDG goals during the lessons

• The lecture presented on October 21, 2024, by Muhammadali Eshonkulov, founder and head of the “Yuksalish Academy of Leaders”, on the subject “Marketing Communications System” for second-year students directly aligned with the goals of SDG 12 – Responsible Consumption and Production. The presentation fostered awareness of ethical and sustainable marketing practices by critically examining the impact of marketing on consumer behavior and elucidating practical approaches for responsible communication. It urged students to synchronize future business and policy decisions with sustainability principles, cultivating educated consumer choices, minimizing wasteful consumption, and enhancing corporate accountability. This educational endeavor consequently fostered a generation of professionals' adept at incorporating sustainable production and consumption practices into Uzbekistan's economic and social development.

"Empowering Change, Shaping Futures: University Actions for a Sustainable World"

ACT NOW TO AVOID THE IMPLICATIONS OF CLIMATE CHANGE

Climate change is a real and undeniable threat to our entire civilization. The effects are already visible and will be catastrophic unless we act now. Through education, innovation, and adherence to our climate commitments, we can make the necessary changes to protect the planet. These changes also provide enormous opportunities to modernize our infrastructure, which will create new jobs and promote greater prosperity around the world.

Environmental problems and solutions

- On November 29 of this year, an event titled "Environmental Problems and Ways to Solve Them" was held at the University of World Economy and Diplomacy (UWED) in cooperation with the administration of School No. 71.
- The event brought together professors and teachers from the Department of Uzbek and Russian Languages, UWED students, and pupils from School No. 71.
- University students prepared an interactive presentation for schoolchildren, highlighting pressing environmental challenges such as air and water pollution, plastic waste in oceans, and climate change. The discussions encouraged participants to reflect on sustainable solutions and personal responsibility in environmental protection.
- This activity is aligned with Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) 13 – Climate Action, specifically Target 13.3 – "Improve education, awareness-raising and human and institutional capacity on climate change mitigation, adaptation, impact reduction, and early warning."
- By engaging both university and school students in educational discussions about climate change and ecological preservation, the event promoted environmental literacy and strengthened climate education. It also aligns with Metric 13.3.1 – "Extent to which (i) climate change education and (ii) climate adaptation and impact reduction are integrated into national education curricula, teacher education, and student learning."
- Source: https://www.uwed.uz/news/459

ADDRESSING ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES DURING CLASS

- Organizing an “Ecological Quiz” and facilitating interactive discussions on environmental protection, waste recycling, and the rational use of natural resources, the initiative strengthened climate awareness and environmental literacy among young people. Participants not only expanded their knowledge but were also motivated to adopt more sustainable behaviors in their daily lives, fostering a culture of responsibility toward climate action.
- This activity also aligns with SDG Metric 13.3.1 – “Extent to which (i) climate change education and (ii) climate adaptation and impact reduction are integrated into national education curricula, teacher education, and student learning.”
- The inclusion of climate-focused topics in an educational setting demonstrates how practical learning initiatives contribute to this indicator by embedding environmental and climate education into extracurricular learning processes. The “Ecological Quiz” serves as an applied educational tool that enhances students’ understanding of climate challenges and encourages them to translate this knowledge into concrete actions supporting adaptation and mitigation efforts.

THE ECOLOGICAL PROBLEM FROM THE EYES OF YOUTH

- On December 7, Sh. Khudaykulova, a teacher from the Department of Uzbek and Russian Languages at UWED, together with members of the "Communication Skills" club, visited School No. 332 in the Sergeli district. The visit aimed to develop students' communication skills and raise awareness of global and environmental issues.
- UWED students presented on "Environmental Issues through the Eyes of Youth," discussing global warming, water scarcity, and pollution, and emphasizing the importance of collective responsibility for environmental protection.

TO MAKE SURE THAT WE MEET THE GLOBAL GOALS

"Empowering Change, Shaping Futures: University Actions for a Sustainable World"

FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT, PRESERVE AND USE THE SEAS, MARINE RESOURCES, AND OCEANS ETHICALLY

Uzbekistan is a doubly landlocked country, yet our people recognize that healthy oceans and seas are essential for human survival. Covering 70% of the Earth's surface, they provide us with food, energy, and water. However, humanity has caused considerable harm to these precious resources. We must safeguard them by eradicating pollution and overfishing, and by urgently adopting sustainable practices to manage and conserve marine life globally. The University of World Economy and Diplomacy fully endorses the Goal 14 and is committed to making a meaningful contribution in this area

“ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEMS AND WAYS TO SOLVE THEM” – CONTRIBUTION TO SDG 14 (LIFE BELOW WATER)

https://www.uwed.uz/news/459

On November 29, 2024, UWED professors, students, and pupils of School No. 71 participated in the event “Environmental Problems and Ways to Solve Them.” University students prepared an interactive presentation highlighting urgent environmental issues, including plastic waste in oceans, water pollution, and ecosystem degradation.

This activity is related to Sustainable Development Goal 14 – Life Below Water, specifically Target 14.1: “By 2025, prevent and significantly reduce marine pollution of all kinds, particularly from land-based activities, including marine debris and nutrient pollution.”

By engaging students and schoolchildren in discussions about plastic pollution and water ecosystem protection, the event contributed to raising awareness of marine conservation, promoting sustainable practices to reduce waste entering aquatic systems, and fostering responsible behavior toward water bodies.

Metrics:

- 14.1.1 – Index of Coastal Eutrophication and Floating Plastic Debris: The activity promotes understanding and prevention of plastic pollution and water contamination.
- 14.1.2 – Proportion of Fish Stocks within Safe Biological Limits (indirectly): By educating youth about pollution, the event supports sustainable management of aquatic resources that affect fish stocks.

“THE TECHNICAL CONDITION OF RESERVOIRS IN UZBEKISTAN” MONOGRAPH – FOR SDG 6 (CLEAN WATER AND SANITATION)– CONTRIBUTION TO SDG 14 (LIFE BELOW WATER)

Based on the project results, a monograph titled “The Technical Condition of Reservoirs in Uzbekistan” (authors: M.R. Ikramova, I.A. Ahmedkhodjaeva, Sh.Kh. Umarova; Tashkent: Lesson Press, 2024) was published and officially approved, confirming its scientific and practical significance. This work contributes to SDG 14 – Life Below Water, particularly to Target 14.1, which focuses on reducing pollution and protecting freshwater ecosystems. By analyzing the state of Uzbekistan’s reservoirs, the research supports sustainable management of inland water bodies and the prevention of aquatic pollution. The study aligns with Metric 14.1.1, improving the proportion of water bodies with good water quality, and Metric 14.1.2, strengthening monitoring and reporting on pollution reduction measures. Through this monograph, the university reinforces its role in evidence-based conservation and sustainable use of aquatic resources in Uzbekistan.

In 2024, the “Program for Calculating the Water Balance of Reservoirs” was officially registered by the Ministry of Justice of the Republic of Uzbekistan (Certificate No. DGU 35130). Developed by M. Ikramova, Sh. Umarova, A. Xodjiyev, and D. Allayorova, the software models hydrological processes and optimizes reservoir management to protect aquatic ecosystems. This innovation contributes to SDG 14 – Life Below Water, particularly Target 14.1, which aims to prevent and reduce pollution in inland water bodies. By providing digital tools for monitoring and managing reservoir water quality and flow, the program supports Metric 14.1.1, increasing the proportion of water bodies with good water quality, and Metric 14.1.2, enhancing monitoring systems to track pollutant levels. Through this approach, the initiative promotes sustainable freshwater ecosystem management and strengthens the protection of aquatic biodiversity in Uzbekistan.

Аннотация: В данной статье анализируется соотношение понятий финансирования под уступку права требования, закрепленного в национальном законодательстве Республики Узбекистан, и факторинга, предусмотренного Конвенцией УНИДРУА. Также проведен сравнительный анализ факторинга с другими видами сделок, с цессией, лизингом и договором купли-продажи, выявлены отличительные черты и сходства. Обсуждена правовая и экономическая сущность факторинга, его роль в развитии малого и среднего бизнеса.

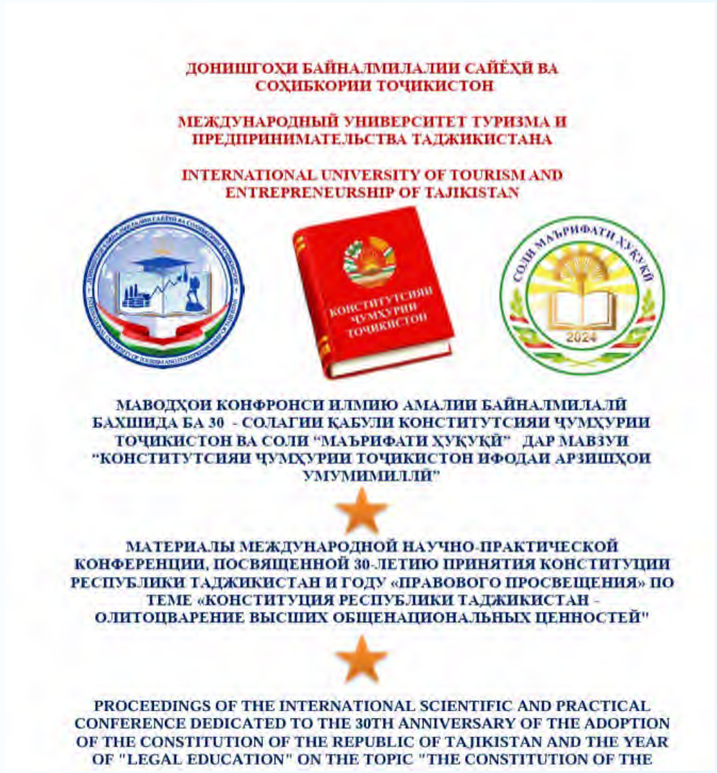

Ключевые слова: факторинг, договор финансирования под уступку права требования, Конвенция УНИДРУА, правовая сущность, малый и средний бизнес.

В законодательстве Республики Узбекистан факторинг определяется как договор финансирования под уступку права требования. Определение этому понятию дано в статье 749 Гражданского кодекса Республики Узбекистан, согласно которой финансовый агент переводит денежную сумму на счет клиента за выполненные работы и оказания услуг третьему лицу(должнику), а клиент обязуется передать права требования финансовому агенту. В свою очередь, в международном праве этот вид договора определяется как договор факторинга. В Конвенции УНИДРУА о международном факторинге, договор факторинга определен как договор, заключенный между поставщиком и фактором, согласно которому поставщик должен уступить права и денежные требования, вытекающие из договора купли-продажи или оказания услуг. Единственным отличием является то, что в конвенции УНИДРУА содержатся исключения по отношению к участникам. Согласно правилам УНИДРУА клиент(дебитор) должен приобретать товар не для личного, семейного или домашнего использования, а в законодательстве Республики Узбекистан это не предусмотрено.

Мнение ученных по поводу соотношения понятий факторинга и договора финансирования под уступку права требования расходятся. Если некоторые из них придерживаются мнения о том, что эти два понятия тождественны, то другие выделяют специфические черты факторинга, отличающие его от общего понятия договора финансирования. А. А. Приходько в ходе изучения международных частноправовых отношений, основанных на договоре факторинга, пришел к выводу, что факторинг в международной торговой практике является одним из видов договора финансирования по уступку права требования. [1] Данный подход поддержал М. В.

Аннотация:

Параллельный импорт представляет собой актуальное явление в международной торговле, в частности интеллектуальной собственности. В отличие от официального импорта, он предполагает ввоз оригинальных товаров с маркировкой товарного знака без разрешения правообладателя. Исследуются основные аспекты параллельного импорта, такие как влияние на официальные дистрибьюторы, доходы бренда, уровень сервиса и риск подделок. Автор рассматривает экономические и правовые последствия параллельного импорта для экспортирующих и импортирующих стран, анализирует различия между официальным и параллельным импортом, а также причины снижения мотивации брендов к развитию локального рынка в условиях серого импорта.
